AFTER THE BATTLE.

Fruits of the Protracted Struggle with Tammany.

Republican Majority on the State Ticket Over 10,000.

Great Gains of the Party Throughout the State.

Gov. Hoffman's Veto Power Neutralized.

The Legislature Two-Thirds Republican in Both Branches.

Tweed Stands Alone in the Ruin He Has Wrought.

Universal Gratification with the Work of Reform.

The additional information of the results of the election in this State, on Tuesday, show more fully the completeness of the triumph of the people in their preliminary contest with the gang of plunderers who have so long oppressed them. The defeat of Democratic leaders has been obscured by a majority exceeding 10,000 votes, and that the State Legislature is overwhelmingly Republican in both branches.

The results in most of the other States, which voted on Tuesday, are also extremely satisfactory, there being decisive Republican majorities in Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois and Mississippi; Maryland, too, whose people have come only lately of disaster, sends many unwonted cheering assurances of Republican successes, and the Legislature, which has been unanimously Democratic, will contain many Republican members. New-Jersey, which has again elected a Democratic Governor, still retains a Republican majority in both Houses of the Legislature.

Miscellaneous Election Returns.

SOME SCATTERING RETURNS FROM THE STATE.

MAYSVILLE, Nov. 8.—Hon. M. P. DEMING is re-elected to the Assembly from the First District of Chautauqua County by about 800 majority.

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y., Nov. 8.—JOHN F. SCHOLEY'S majority for Senator, in Otsego County, will be about 700.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Nov. 8.—The complete vote in Orange County gives SCHERMERHORN 1,200 majority, MADDEN, (Senate,) 2,800, and ARNOTT, (Second Assembly,) 100. DEMING, Democrat, (Senate,) has 200 majority in Sullivan County.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Nov. 8.—Dutchess County complete, one town estimated, gives SCHERMERHORN 2,445 majority, a Republican gain of 2,466.

PALMER'S majority for Senator is over 1,000. The Republican county ticket is elected.

THE LEGISLATURE.

A Republican Majority of More Than Two-Thirds in Both Branches.

Our returns of members of the Legislature, thus far received, indicate pretty conclusively that the new Senate will be composed of twenty-four Republicans, six Democrats, and two Reformers; and the Assembly of ninety-two Republicans, twenty-six Democrats, and seven Reformers. The full Senate and a Democratic majority of three, and the Assembly (by unofficial returns) out of Mr. TWEEDY, a Democratic majority of two. We have therefore a Republican gain of seventeen on joint ballot, which, with the votes of the Senate, is increased to twenty-four. The Republican and Reform majority on joint ballot is eighty-four. THE RESULT IN BROOKLYN.

Decided Republican Gains Throughout the City—Exposing and Voice Counting by the Democrats.

The election in Brooklyn and Kings County has resulted in decided Republican gains. Of the nine Assemblymen elected five are Republicans, whereas last year eight of the total were Democrats. The following are the majorities of the successful candidates:

District.	Majority.	District.	Majority.
1.	Altzen, Dem.....4,563	6.	Peck, Rep.....606
2.	White, Rep.....1,868	7.	Morton, Rep.....87
3.	Rooke, Dem.....8,372	8.	Bennett, Rep...1,904
4.	Mosely, Dem.....752	9.	Jacobs, Dem....1,243
5.	Scott, Rep.....1,941

A Senator has also been gained, PIERCE, the notorious Ring tool, being utterly repudiated by the constituents of the Second District. JOHN C. PERRY, the Republican nominee, ran ahead of his ticket, and was elected by a majority of 1,227. H. C. MURPHY, Democrat, was elected from the Third District by a greatly-decreased majority. This result is looked upon as the more satisfactory in view of the fact that the Ring had troops of repeaters at almost every poll, and failing by means of them entirely to overcome the honest vote, resorted in the most unscrupulous manner to their old game of counting out. In order to consummate this crime with the greater ease they took possession of the ballots, and did not finish up the work of counting them until late yesterday afternoon. Indeed, their conduct in this respect is unprecedented. Up to 3 o'clock yesterday morning only six of the twenty-two Wards in the city were heard from either on State or local ticket, and in several of these the fraud was apparent. The total vote cast in the City was the largest ever polled in any election. In 1870, the total vote for Governor was 82,282; this year, or the opposing candidates for Mayor, it rose up 85,883. In the Fifth and Sixth Wards, it is alleged, the number of votes returned exceeds considerably the citizenship of these wards. The Republicans, however, do not propose to submit tamely to such outrages. A meeting of the defrauded candidates and their friends will be held at 9 o'clock this morning in Commonwealth Hall, and measures devised for the securing of justice in the matter.

SAMUEL B. POWELL, the Democratic candidate for Mayor, is elected over SAMUEL BOOTH, the Republican nominee, by about 4,800 majority. The result is undoubtedly due in great measure to the lack of a Reform ticket being in the field; the mass of the votes cast for which, were undoubtedly Republican. Although the returns of the vote for City Controller are not yet all in, sufficient have been received to show beyond a doubt that FREDERICK SCHROEDER, the Republican nominee for that office, is elected over his Democratic opponent, EVAN M. JOHNSON, by a handsome majority. It is also believed that BURROWS, Republican, has been elected as Collector of Taxes, but this is not absolutely certain. SPRAGUE, Democrat, is elected City Treasurer. It is not yet certain what the result has been concerning the City Auditorship, both parties claiming the election of their candidate, HENRY H. MOORE is elected County Judge by a small majority. The Coroners are Democratic, as are three of the Commissioners of Charities. Of the eleven Aldermen elected, four are Republican and seven Democratic. The result as to the Supervisors is similar. The following are the names of the gentlemen elected:

SUPERVISORS.

The Eighteenth Ward has yet to be heard from on the State ticket, but it is known to be pretty evenly divided, and cannot therefore do much to affect the result. The following is the vote by wards:

OUTSIDE OPINION.

Rejoicing Over the Result—The Greatest Event of Modern Politics.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The full and complete victory in New-York has been the almost exclusive topic of comment here today. It is needless to say that all Republicans are more than satisfied, while many Democrats express their sincere satisfaction that the Tammany ulcer on their party has at last been cut out, and that the honest men in that party are left free to pursue their course untrammelled by such a dead weight. For this they are almost as grateful as though they had themselves won the victory by honest means for honest purposes. The President and all the members of the Cabinet who are here were warmly congratulated on the result, and none exhibited more gratification than the President himself. The marvelous changes in the figures of many of the Wards in New-York from their accustomed showing, is a most interesting study to many people here, who can hardly realise the great change which they have undergone. A prominent jurist said today that the victory in New-York was the greatest event of modern politics.

English Press Comments on the New-York Elections.

LONDON, Nov. 9—5 A. M.—The Times, this morning, has a leader on the election in New-York. It rejoices in the defeat of Tammany, congratulates the electors on the result, and hopes an example will be made of the men guilty of corrupt practices.

Tone of the Comments of the Republican Press.

From the Troy Times.

There is a deeper significance in this glorious issue than the election of eastern men or the triumph of a party. It is the splendid manifestation of the moral stamina and resolution of our people. It is the vindicaeson of the soundness and health of our system of government. It is the proclamation to the world that "government by the people and for the people has not yet perished out of the land." It is the proof, that while corruption may creep insidiously into politics, it will be smitten by the crushing hand of popular reprobation, when its hateful and abhorrent proportions are fully disclosed.

From the Rochester Democrat.

One of the most gratifying signs of the times is the fact that the citizens of the commercial metropolis have at last become aroused to the consciousness of their duty as electors. New-York City has done its duty manfully, by largely decreasing the Democratic majority.

From the Syracuse Standard.

The good battle waged in New-York City against the hosts of corruption, under brave the leadership of GREELEY, the significant feature of the contest, the honest masses of that City have recorded their verdict against the continuance in power of the cabal which has hitherto ruled them. Though not immediately successful in securing complete emancipation from their chains, they have demonstrated their ability and their resources to maintain the fight so well begun—to compass, in time, their full deliverance.

From the Rondout Freeman.

It is no Republican triumph we chronicle this morning, but an uprising of the people, in all the glory and majesty of their might, to rebuke official wrong-doing. With a perfect avalanche of wrath they have strewn down the men who represented the Ring, and he has carried with him the ticket which he nominated. The Republican Party was the nucleus of the movement for pure government, but great credit and the warm gratitude of every tax-payer is due to the noble army of pure Democrats who demanded that their own party should be purged of the men who had disgraced it. Such a rebuke has never before been administered to public officials in this country.

From the Philadelphia Telegraph.

The election of TWEED to the Senate, in the face of the exposures of his unparalleled villainies, shows how fearfully the right of suffrage may be abused by an ignorant and debauched constituency. And yet the diminution of his majority, the defeat of several of his prominent confederates, and the probable election of some of the candidates on the anti-Tammany City ticket, not only foreshadow the speedy overthrow of the Ring that has so fearfully robbed New-York, but afford abundant encouragement to every other plundered municipality. They prove that in desperate emergencies a reserved moral power may be evoked from the most unpromising and discordant elements to punish fraud and set at defiance party rule, and that a national man will not forever forget and ignore the fact that party organizations are only worthy of support so far as they tend to further the ends of good government.

From the Philadelphia Bulletin.

If the local consequences of the triumph are excellent, the general results will be equally good. The great victory expresses most forcibly the approval of the administration of President GRANT by the people of all these States, and gives a distinct promise of its re-election. It is an endorsement of indorsements of a President over given, and a year of an administration, and President GRANT has a right to be proud of it. It inflicts a terrible blow upon the Democracy, making its new departure and all its other flimsy contrivances for catching votes utterly contemptible and hopeless.

VIEWS OF PROMINENT MEN.

What the Attorney-General Most Has to Say About It.

Gen. FRANCIS C. BARLOW, yesterday, was visited by a reporter of the TIMES. In the conversation that ensued, he said that it was impossible to exaggerate the importance of the great victory won at the polls in this City and State by the friends of Reform on Tuesday. Few, he said, expected it to be so decisive, and the most sanguine watchers of the election returns on Tuesday night were overwhelmed by the evidences of the extent of the popular uprising against official corruption which came rapidly pouring in upon them. Since the great outburst of popular indignation on the 12th of April, 1871, there has been no like demonstration of the hidden virtue, courage and honesty of the people. There is no doubt, continued Gen. BARLOW, but that we can now cleanse and purify ourselves of all our corrupt officials, the Mayor, the Commissioners, officers and in the different municipal bureaux, the Judges of the City Courts and inferior Courts, in fact all the creations of the new charter can be, and will be, abolished by legislative enactment. A new charter will be framed, and an election will be ordered under it. The Judges of the higher Courts, who are constitutional appointments, will be reached through impeachment. All of that miserable coterie of Tammany Republicans now holding office in the several departments are forever politically crushed. They can never again hold place up in the Republican Party, and it is very certain they will never have the chance in the Democratic. Criminal proceedings, said Gen. BARLOW, will be commenced against every man who is implicated in the City frauds. This can be relied upon. This, I take it, continued the General, is only the commencement of reform. If it is the end, then we have made a great deal of noise about nothing. Those who have stolen their money sent of the election in a most eminented manner. Controller CONNOLLY said little, but laughed a great deal. The contrast between the elongated faces of the Ring sinecures and the enfranchised voters was interesting and wonderful. Everywhere the evidences of the great political transformation were visible.

The beneficial effect of the recent triumph of the people upon the real estate market cannot be over-estimated, and the general feeling yesterday, among those interested in these matters, was one of relief. For a tyrear past a feeling of uncertainty has existed, and not only has it been extremely difficult to dispose of property at satisfactory figures, but a difficulty has also been experienced in obtaining loans upon really, as great has been the distrust in the existing order of affairs. With the change of rulers, however, comes a restoration of public confidence. Brokers and others now say that when the public are assured that the finances of the City will be honestly administered, taxes reduced and the money paidinto the Treasury properly applied, and that as contracts can therefore be made on a secure basis, activity will take the place of the late depression, and a healthy tone once more be restored to the market. Of course this result will not be an immediate one, for time will be required to work the necessary changes. Under the old régime, to allow for the plunder demanded by the thieves in power, the course required to carry through work for the completed public improvements was double and quadruple that which was really needed, and the real estate along the line of the work in times had since months was the sufferer. With the removal of this incubus the property itself will, it will easily be seen, be immensely benefited, and owners cannot fail to soon feel the relief thus afforded. Another check upon the resources of the land owners was the enormous assessments made to carry out pooled improvements, but in many instances so-called improvements, costing vast sums of money, have been projected on the pretext of necessity merely for the purpose of allowing those in power to add to their illgotten gains. With these constant and sudden attacks on the real estate of the City, it is not to be wondered at that capital, although aware of the fact that as an investment nothing was better than New-York property, have hesitated to place their capital in jeopardy, and large sums of money have thus been diverted into other channels, which should have legitimately found its way into the market. As has been said, however, all this is now changed, and leading real estate operators all concur in the opinion that when once it can be seen that honesty is the rule rather than the exception, real estate, one of the vital interests of the Metropolis, and upon which its great material wealth rests, will soon feel the effect, and the life and stimulation will once more be restored to the market.

Feeling Among the Merchants.

Several large wholesale establishments were visited yesterday by a TIMES reporter, and on all sides the greatest satisfaction was felt at the result of the election. The Republican success in the State has altogether restored confidence. In one case was it said that the election would have otherwise than a good effect upon trade. The employes in all the establishments visited by the TIMES representative appeared to be in the best possible kind of humor. All the merchants stated say they have had a visitation of unexpected good luck.

Feeling Among Tradesmen.

Probably no class of people in the City has more cause for rejoicing over Tammany's defeat than the small tradesmen. They, who with little capital, heavy rents, the result of outrageous Ring taxation, and the thousand other impediments to struggling honesty in this sometime unfortunate City, work night and day for mere bread, now feel that the hour of their release has come, and they can work and walk erect like men again. "What was the use of our slaving as we did," said they, "to put bloated thieves over us in the shape of wealthy cabinet and chair-making robbers who took all they could squeeze out of us and never paid us hoccas bill if possible. Where could a man doing a small business and realizing trifling profits, hope to be free or independent while they had to hand over nearly quarter of their earnings in one way and another to these scoundrels? Now all is different with them. The breath of relief which arose from the hearts of the whole class yesterday morning, was audible in every part of the City. Go where you would, the influence of the victory was visible. Men whom you were accustomed to see driving along the streets with corrugated brows and anxious eye in quest of 5s or 6s daily, found time to step on the wayside, and nodding cheerfully to their one and grasping the hands of others warmly, asked: "Is not this glorious news, Tom? The old Empire State and Metropolis are saved. Thanks be to God! A man can earn a living for himself and family again." Indeed this was the sentiment, if not the language, of every honest tradesman in New-York yesterday. Fear had vanished, and a hopeful trust in the complete reformation of Municipal affairs imparted a lively tone to each word and action. "Well," said one man, "you see the people's voice, after all, has something to do with good government, and Old Tweed and his fugleman, truck-driving Sheehan have found out that they are going to do about it. Wait until the Reformers citn up the 12,000 indictments lying in the District-Attorney's office against Tammany's only friends, won't there be an exodus of rouges of all classes? I guess our wives and daughters will soon be able to walk the streets and ride in street cars unmolested. The reign of ruin and terror has been broken, and the sun has got the reins of the Government at last in hand securely." A sense of security long unknown to these men prevails, and the better day is fairly on them.

The Battle-Field—Improved Condition of the Situation.

Yesterday the smoke of the battle had cleared away sufficiently to permit an intelligent view to be taken of the centers of Tuesday, and the friends of Reform were gratified to learn that the result was even more glorious than they had hoped for. The victory has been complete in every respect, and its effect not only upon the State but upon the country at large can well be imagined.

Of course, the first thing done by every man and child, yesterday morning, was to study the newspapers. In the extra edition of the TIMES they found figures and facts which created a thrill of joy in the breasts of all lovers of honesty and good order. The fact was stated, beyond a doubt, that the Reform ticket had triumphed, and businessmen went to their labor with a light heart, greeting on their way acquaintances whom they met and mutual congratulations followed. The Germans were most enthusiastic in their demonstrations of joy over the election of SIGEL. As late as 4 o'clock on Wednesday morning the publication office of the TIMES was thronged with Germans, and when the fact was announced that SIGEL had received an overwhelming vote, the happy Germans could contain themselves no longer, but shouted hurrah, and adopted the Russian mode of salutation. Men met each other on the street, and, where the slightest acquaintanceship existed, passed some remark about the glorious victory. Business was dispatched with the utmost rapidity, for men were anxious to get away somewhere, that they might hear some more good news. Plenty of it was found, and, indeed, there seemed a perfect avalanche all day.

The members of the Committee of Seventy were accosted on the street, and not only congratulated but warmly thanked for the noble part they had taken in securing this victory. "Now," said one gentleman to a member of the Committee, "we must have a jollification, whereat we can rejoice over this grand triumph." The member remarked, approvingly, "Yes, we will have a festival." As the twain parted the observation was made that now there would be no lack of funds for any measure the Committee of Seventy pushed to carry into effect.

The TIMES came in for its share of compliments, and the representatives of the paper were everywhere congratulated on the work that had been done during the campaign. The issues in this paper were regretted as more readable than those of any other in the City, and the manner in which the result was announced, and the paeans of victory sung in the editorial columns, were enthusiastically praised.

In Wall-street everybody felt good. For some days before the election capitalists and bankers had entertained fears that the City was so far given over to the rule of the Ring that all efforts to redeem it would prove unavailing. They thought that Tammany was too strong, and they counted not upon the uprising of the people when the wrongs and rascalities under which they had so long suffered should be exposed. The manner they had been by an independent and fearless Press, and the active and determined work of the Committee of Seventy. Finding that the election had resulted in a victory for Reform so overwhelming, the capitalists unloosed their purse-strings and poured out money—for a consideration—freely. With the existence of Ingersoll and Tweed ended all fears of investments, and during the day railway and all other securities advanced sharply. This put the bulls in good humor; and as for the bears, they were in a minority, and evidently did not feel like operating.

At the Custom-house Collector MURRAY held a levee all day and congratulations were showered upon him from every side. Surveyor CORNELL and Hon. WM. A. DARLING gave some valuable information respecting the result of the canvass, and showed over some double respecting districts in which the returns had been incomplete the night before. The assertion is made that the Reform tickets has been carried in thirteen of the Assembly districts of this City, that will have four out of five Senators; that in Kings PERRY, Republican, is elected in the Third Senatorial District, four Republicans from the Assembly and one seat will be contested with the probabilities in favor of seating the Republican member. Rockland County has gone Republican for the first time in thirty years. The Democratic rulers of that county wanted to construct a boulevard there, and assess the farmers for the improvement. The Rocklanders did not "see it," and "went back" on the would-be plunderers. It is claimed that there will be in the next Legislature twenty-three Senators and about ninety Assemblymen who are either Republicans or Reformers. A two-thirds vote in both Houses is considered certain. This insures a new charter for New-York, an efficient Excise law, a reorganization of the Board of Police and Fire Department and all other measures of reform, and last, but not least, renders certain the election by the Republicans of a United States Senator. MORTON has a large majority in Newburg. Judge ROBERTSON is elected to the Senate. MADDEN is elected in Orange County, and three Republican members of Assembly are chosen from that county. The Tenth District has elected a Republican to the Senate, notwithstanding the fact that a Greeley Republican was running there. It is stated that members of the Greeley Republican Committee ran Greeley tickets out of their boxes in the Seventeenth Ward. Tioga County sends a Republican by a large majority. JOHN T. HARRIS did good work in Westchester County on the side of Reform though he is an old Democrat. It is stated on good authority that PETER ROBER, who holds a sinecure position on the Brooklyn Water Board, traveled about the Fourteenth Ward on Tuesday was a gang of roughs, but they were prevented from working by the energetic action of Republicans. This ROBER was appointed on the Water Board on the 15th of September. On Oct. 1 he drew $75 for his half month's "work," and was thereby led to suppose that he would be paid at the rate of $150 per month. He was disgusted and chagrined on the 1st inst. to receive only $62, and worked energetically on Tuesday to let his masters see that he was worth more.

It is not too early to speak of the future. This victory of Tuesday has demonstrated the fact that by united and determined action the Republicans and honest Democrats can sweep down all opposition. Next year the State can be carried for Gen. GRANT and the entire Republican ticket. The leaders of the party are already at work to this end, and will surely accomplish this result. In the late canvass the State Committee have devoted their attention to bringing out the weak members of the party, and thus they have strengthened the whole organization. It is thought probable that now the two wings of the party will work in unity, and hereafter work together as brethren.

One effect of the victory will be to restore confidence in all classes of City and State securities, the former of which have been seldom dealt in of late, and even not often quoted. This result may not be obtained immediately, but it will come, and then the credit of the City will be placed on a firm foundation.

At the Hotels.

The stupendous and utterly unexpected victory of the Reform Party has given to the languid time-killers of the hotels a great and absorbing topic. Throughout the day at the Fifth-avenue Hotel, at the St. Nicholas, at the Prescott House among the Germans, at the Grand Central among the actors, at the Westminster among the English, the one subject of conversation that, like Aaron's serpent, swallowed up the rest, was the victory of the Reform ticket and the annihilation of Tammany. Ladies in the most gorgeous toilets at the luncheon table isped politely and inquired energetically what was to be done with that horrid Mr. TWEED, others expressed their warm sympathy with that darling Gen. SIGEL, and said how nice it was that he should have so large a majority. The pretty lisper showed plainly that the fortunes of the Tammany diamonds had completely faded, and that the Republican Party had again the warmest wishes of the fair sex. The gentlemen who lounged about the hotels were equally incapable of discovering on any other theme. Bets were frequent that TWEED would abscond within a week, and when an evening paper announced that he had bolted on the Reform series of "I told you so," echoed from every quarter. Large sums, also, that OAKEY HALL would either commit suicide or resign were freely offered, but the probabilities of his resignation appeared so strong that no one would bet against it. His suicide was scouted by many who wagered their money on the only thing he would do on such thing, asserting that no one would commit suicide who had not some sense of shame, or some warmth of feeling, and that the Mayor had neither. At the Prescott House, a proposition was started of offering a serenade to FRANZ SIGEL, the German hero of the hour, but when information was received that a band 100 strong would play in front of his headq-uarters at Germania Hall the project dropped, and his friends contented themselves by agreeing to be present. The telegraph operators at the different hotels were frequently employed in sending congratulations to the various Reform candidates, especially to the gentlemen on the State ticket, whose chances had been considered very slim. The climax of the accumulated fun was when the presiders in the kitchen sent up at dinner a centre dish for the dessert, full of various jellies, which he styled Glüer en marachtin à la Reforme. Everywhere, in short, the utmost enthusiasm and devotion to the Reformers was evinced in the most striking fashion.

On the Streets.

The enthusiasm at the victory was so irrepressible that the most sober, the most staid and quiet citizens were utterly carried away by it. It was so contagious that even the Quakers allowed unusual hilarity to beam upon their countenances. Merchants stopped each other on the street, and shouted in their glee "We've done pretty well this time neighbor, hay! Some power in the respectable classes yet." Then they would shake hands, and go on their way rejoicing. But the most extraordinary demonstrations were made for the Germans, for they were positively crazy with delight at the tremendous majority rolled up by FRANZ SIGEL. Whenever a German saw another German coming he would smile at him all over his face, and if the face opposite beamed back a similar greeting as it did ninety-nine times out of a hundred, the two would shake hands as if they were trying to break each other's fingers, and then pass on without a word. On the Bowery German friends flew into each other's arms and kissed each other as if they were going to execution and were pronouncing the last solemn and farewell.

Occasionally men might be seen who did not share in the universal rapture. Such strange beings were lights of overcoats, greasy hats, large diamonds and snowy shirt bosoms. There were many of them round the Sinclair House on Eighth-street and Broadway, and they surrounded a short, stout, red-faced man whom they called Judge, and who looked uncommonly downcast. Every now and again he would say "Boys, I tell you I'm ruined. I've spent every cent in this thing, and now I'm beaten; there's an end of me for good and all."

Along the line of Third-avenue the demonstrations of triumph were unceasing. From every saloon and restaurant came sounds of "SIGEL hell," and other expressions of endearment to the Teutonic chieftain.

At SIGEL'S head-quarters, in Germania Hall, the Committee, consisting of Messrs. C. AUFENGER, OSWOLD OTTENDORFER, Col. ZOLLICOFFER, and ADAM WERER, were eagerly interviewed and questioned as to the events of the great civic battle. Mr. OSWALD OTTENDORFER was for the most part in the offices of his paper, the Staats Zeitung, and was himself overwhelmed with visitors, both American and German, who came to thank him for his great exertions in the cause of Reform. But the others had to rehearse the stories of the fray, and tell how Tammany had tried to buy off O'BRIEN, who kicked the messenger outside the door, and how TWEED had sent a confidential agent to FRANZ SIGEL to offer him the Tammany nomination for Register. How the General had jumped up in disgust and shouted at the top of his voice, "never," and would hear no more about it, and how when Tammany had upset his booths in the Fourth and Sixth Wards, he had come down alone and unarmed among the tigers with a handful of tickets, had shouted out for the soldiers who had fought and SIGEL, and had been surrounded by a crowd of brave Germans, who had filled their pockets with the Reform tickets and peddled them in spite of all the roughs that TWEED'S money and influence could scare up.

There was great hunting for the successful Register, but no one found him. He has his office with AUFENGER & EHRENRICH, No. 20 Pine-street, but he was not there. He was not with OSWALD OTTENDORFER, nor with Col. VELMAR, of Bond-street, one of his greatest friends, nor at his lawyer's on Broadway, nor at his head-quarters. Men desirous of getting letters from him to the President hunted him desperately, but unsuccessfully, nor was it until the evening that the fact transpired that he had gone home to Morrisania, being tired out.

DETAILS OF THE CONTEST.

Election Night—Enthusiastic Crowds in the Times Building—Immense Sale of This Paper.

Long after midnight, when the other parts of Printing-house-square had been deserted, and the olfactory organs of prowling politicians began to scent the morning air, fresh contingents of public-spirited Germans kept arriving at the TIMES' building, and taking up their quarters inside the counting-room prepared to pass the night, if need be, to get the returns. Twere vain to attempt anything like a portrayal of the pent-up and ever-bubbling feelings of each individual present. Men who stood near the counter considered themselves fortunate, as the news behind the desk must reach them before their fellows got it. Push and jamb was the order of the hour, and it has been freely stated that many persons known to have long suffered from colds, forsook all about their next-door neighbor's feet being upon them, so deeply engrossed were they with the ebb of battle, at that hour definitely known to be in the Reformers' favor. Of course there were many men of other nationalities present, but certainly half were German. To them the fortunes of FRANZ SIGEL were especially dear, and as each return was posted on the bulletin, a shout of stentorian applause greeted the announcement of his majority. When the bulletin showed that SIGEL had carried the Seventeenth Ward by an overwhelming vote, the burst of enthusiasm nearly shook the panes of glass out of the door-sashes. Hand grasped hand, and men, in the fervor of joy, embraced each other, while others beat the counter frantically, feeling that excess of pleasure would kill them unless a counteracting pang somewhere equinoxed their systems. One man screamed aloud his gratification and working his way through the crush to the stoop, declaimed vociferously to the elements and the sleeping City the great tidings of its political and financial redemption. As morning approached the returns came in more rapidly, and every succeeding figure indicating the Reform victory brought out tumultuous expressions of satisfaction from the watchers. It mattered not whether BARLOW, BARRETT, O'BRIEN or SIGEL were said to be succeeding, the information was hailed with ecstasy. However the first sound of the presses in motion, and the first copies of the TIMES, the excitement to fever-heat, and the people grew impatient for the first edition of the TIMES. At last the boy was seen to emerge from the pressroom with a load of damp papers, and then the scene which ensued was literally a scramble. Outstretched hands and loud voices demanded the coveted sheets, so that ere many minutes elapsed a further supply had to be brought in. Germans and newsboys vied with each other in making large purchases to sell to the customers they knew awaited them up-town in every direction. And the "cry was still they come" in the publishing house, so that in an hour one of the largest editions of the TIMES ever published was sold, and the presses were hard at work getting out a second which was in demand as soon as ready. Newsmen and boys having sold out long before, had returned for more, while the main office was besieged by importunate persons wanting to get hold of a copy, because they had heard it remarked everywhere, up and down town, that the TIMES, the unflinching champion of reform and honesty, had issued the most complete and correct returns of the elections." In this spirit people bought thousands of copies, and as an early hour in the forenoon every TIMES was bought up, while still a great demand for it existed. With daylight the crowd dispersed, but ere they left three rousing cheers were given for Reform and the TIMES.

Arrest of Repeaters.

JOHN HARTMAN and JOHN LANDER were brought before Justice SCOTT at Essex Market Police Court, yesterday, on a charge of illegal voting. Officer DORAN, of the Eighteenth Precinct, testified that on election day he saw the prisoners approach the polling booth of the Twelfth Election District of the Eighteenth Ward, and that HARTMAN expressed his desire to vote. He represented his name to be DENNIS HICKEY of No. 418 East Twenty-fourth-street, and on being told that that address was not within the district they both left. After the absence of half an hour they returned, when HICKEY again tried to vote, stating his name was DENNIS HICKEY of No. 418 East Twenty-fourth-street. Upon being sworn, the latter, LANDMAN, corroborated HICKEY'S statement, and stated he knew him to reside there for a considerable period. Both prisoners were then arrested, when HICKEY admitted his name was HARTMAN and that his purpose in voting was illegal. They were both committed for trial.

ANDREW MILLER, No. 15 Wall-street, colored, and JAMES ANDERSON, of No. 17 Thirty-fifth-street, were before Alderman MITCHELL, at Jefferson Market Police Court, yesterday, for illegal voting. They were remanded for further evidence.

DAVID PICKETT, of the Twentieth Ward, charged with repeating, was also held for examination.

A Tammany Election Inspector Arrested for Changing Ballots.

ANDREW SMITH, a Tammany inspector of election in the Fourth Election District of the Eleventh Ward, was arraigned before Justice SCOTT, at Essex Market Police Court, yesterday, on a charge of changing the vote of CHRISTIAN SUTTER, cast for the Reform ticket, to that of Tammany Hall. The particulars of this case appeared in yesterday's TIMES. A similar complaint was made against him by JACOB LEOBOLDT, of No. 500 Sixth-street, and he was held on each charge in $600 bail. The sureties were subsequently procured, and the prisoner was discharged.

Efforts to Arrest Jim Irvine and Geachegan.

Efforts are now being made by the Federal authorities to secure the arrest of the noted "JIM" IRVINE and OWEN GEOGHEGAN, the exprize fighter, on a charge of resisting United States officers, and their speedy trial and sentence are promised in case they are apprehended.

There is an old United States statute which makes it a punishable offense for any person to refuse assistance when called upon to aid an officer of the Government in the performance of his duty. It is thought that this law may be enforced against a policeman who refused his services when asked to help Deputy Marshals KEHOE and BERNHARD while they were attempting to arrest "ONEY" GEOGHEGAN at the corner of Avenue B and Fifteenth-street, on Monday last.

The District-Attorney Promises to Prosecute Fraudulent Voters.

Great interest is being manifested by the public to know what disposition is to be made with the inspectors and persons charged with ballot-stuffing, substitution of ballots, illegal voting, and other election frauds. To obtain some official information on the subject, a reporter of the TIMES yesterday saw District-Attorney GARVIN, who said that whatever complaints were brought before him for violation of the Election law would be immediately laid before the Grand Jury as required by statute, and that he would bring to bear his utmost energies to do what he felt it to be his duty to do all in his power to maintain the purity of the ballot-box, and to procure speedy punishment for repeaters and dishonest inspectors. Last year he received four complaints for election frauds, and caused the conviction and sentence of one of the prisoners before Judge HILTON, the other cases being discharged for want of sufficient evidence. The District-Attorney mentioned that the Grand Jury would not be in session until next Monday, and that he could not bring any cases before it until that time. As yet, he has not received any complaints from the Police Courts. He expressed himself pleased in prospect of the trials of CHARLES LAZARUS and JOHN PETIT, two Fourth Ward politicians arrested for fraudulent registration, when the Court of Over and Terminer resumed its sittings next Monday.

NOTES OF THE ELECTION.

A vile journal supported by Ring advertisements appeared, yesterday, with the engraving of a big rooster, and underneath it the words, "What are you going to do about it? This cut had evidently been intended to celebrate a victory of Tammany, and its production was a characteristic sign of the Ring's insolence. The filthy sheet in which this elegant design appeared will soon perish, now that its Corporation food is all taken from it.

The following letter has been sent to this office:

SIR: I observed, yesterday, that two hours after you had hoisted the flag from the top of your building the Tribune followed suit. Thus, to the very last, it persisted in lagging slowly and unwillingly after the TIMES. There is nothing like being consistent to the end. Did you notice that the Tribune seemed very much out of spirits at our great victory, and actually gave the State to the Democrats? Perhaps the wish was father to the thought—certainly, after the Tribune had published the Democratic ballot in its columns, and advised its readers to "cross it out," it is not surprising that it should have fancied the Democrats had won the State.

Yours, respectfully, AN OLD READER.

On election day Mr. B. F. MUDGETT had in his hand a set of tickets, and among them one for PULLMAN for Senator. JOHN V. GRIDLEY took him one side and told him the ticket for him to vote was the Bradley ticket, "not their folks" were going for BRADLEY. MUDGETT remonstrated, that he was a Republican, and using the familiar Tribune argument, GRIDLEY renewed his efforts to persuade him to go for BRADLEY. The result was that MUDGETT was so much disgusted with the duplicity of the thing, that he voted the O'Brien ticket. While GRIDLEY canvass for PULLMAN MUDGETT votes for BRADLEY. Villainy somewhere. But who can explain? For the alliance of GRIDLEY and GRESSLY is one of the most inexplicable things in politics.

Those who believe that Sheriff O'BRIEN supported SHANDLEY for Register should look at the returns for O'BRIEN'S district, the Fifteenth of the Twenty-first Ward. The figures are SIGEL, 881; SHANDLEY, 23. The Tammany Republicans voted for SHANDLEY, 23; PULLMAN, 24; GRESSLEY, Assistant Aldermen, 22, and GRESSLEY Inspectors of Election, 23.

The Tribune still keeps up its sham fight against Tammany Hall. Almost every day it does something to help the cause of Reform.

A day or two ago it primed the Tammany ticket as the choice of the Committee of Seventy, with the advice to its readers to vote it. On the same day it printed the time of opening the polls a half-hour too late and the closing seven minutes too early. Yesterday morning, in its very latest election returns, it deliberately abandoned the State to the Democracy, giving the figures—Democratic, 65,000; Republican, 63,500. What next?

About the first sight that met the gaze of the Mayor on entering his office yesterday morning was a man selling a pamphlet, entitled, "Downfall of Tammany," price ten cents. This itinerant book-seller had with him an immense placard, bearing the same words as the title page of the pamphlet, and one of these placards he posted up on the office door, where it remained the whole day, somewhat to the astonishment of Messrs. SWEENY, TWEED, and the Tammany magnates who called on the Mayor yesterday.

Mr. FOLEY, the candidate elect of the Fourteenth Assembly District, had no little difficulty at several of his election districts. At the Twenty-fifth he had to call in the aid of the Police to support his rights, the Tammany Party endeavoring to exclude his challenges. A rowdy named GILLESPIE attempted to browbeat and bully Assemblyman FOLEY, and a fight was imminent when FOLEY'S friend hurried him into a carriage. The mob afterward smashed in the windows of the carriage. Of course no arrests were made.

Praise is due to Commissioner JOHN J. DAVENPORT and Mr. GEO. S. LYONS for the executive ability displayed in the management of the Committee of Seventy on election day, and also to Messrs. PALEY, CAREY and BOGART for their efficient assistance. Much of the Reform victory is due to the united exertions and labors of these gentlemen, protracted for nights past until daylight in the morning.

The four regiments of militia that were under arms on Tuesday were thoroughly drilled in the use of the new magazine rifle during the day. In the evening the men amused themselves in various ways. The Seventh Regiment followed as an impromptu charade, "The Reception of the Duke Alexis," one of their number acting as ALEXIS.

A keeper of one of the Reform election booths in the Eighteenth Ward was caught circulating Bradley tickets, in a clandestine manner, on election day, and was marched off to a neighboring water-trough, in which he was immersed several times as a punishment for his perfidy.

A meeting of the Seventh District Republican Association will take place to-night at the Head-quarters, 63 Sixth-avenue, to celebrate the election of Hon. ERASTUS C. BENEDICT and Hon. HORATIO N. TWOMBLY. The hall will be illuminated.

Carriages were in great demand by politicians on Tuesday, and could only be procured by paying enormous prices. Nearly every Tammany candidate for office hired some sort of vehicle in order to expedite his visits to the polling places and rum-shops.

Mr. JAMES O'BRIEN, in his speech on Tuesday evening, said: "It had been his misfortune to have been once associated with Tammany Hall; but his constituents need never doubt him for the future."

The lady Principal of the Rockland Institute at Nyack, and other ladies of the Institute, voted Tuesday. The names were regularly registered and voted upon.

The entire German vote cast for the Reform ticket on Tuesday is estimated at about 40,000.

The Calcutta Daily Examiner gives the following account of the obsequies of the late lamented Chief-Justice NORMAN, who died by the hand of a native assassin: "The funeral ceremony of the late Chief-Justice was the most imposing Calcutta has witnessed for many a year. From 4 in the afternoon until 5, a continuous stream of mourners attended at his lordship's house. Members of every nationality and creed congregated to testify to the sincere respect and esteem in which he had been held. The body was laid out in a room on the ground floor. The face remained unscathed; no trace of the recent agony were visible, and the countenance appeared as though the sufferer had just fallen asleep. At 5 o'clock a salute of seventeen guns was fired, and the cortège left the house. By command of the Viceroy, the funeral was conducted at the public square, and all high officials and employes were requested to attend. The murder is supposed now to have been at the instance of the Wahabee sect, and it is thought has a clue has been obtained.

THE GRAND DUKE'S HISTORY.

Scene at the Palace on the Day of His Birth—He is Greeted at once a Colonel by the Emperor Nicholas—His Aptitude for Study—At the Death-Bed of his Eldest Brother—His Particular for the Navy—His Heroism in Saving the Life of a Drowning Lady.

On the 14th day of JANUARY, 1850, the day after the new year according to the Russian calendar, there was no little commotion in the St. Petersburg Palace of the Grand Duke ALEXANDER, the heir to the Crown of Russia. This unwonted excitement in an Imperial palace was on the occasion of the birth of an Imperial infant. Anxious relatives and titled officers of State awaited nervously the message from the sick chamber of the Grand Duchess. Finally the word came that the life of the mother was beyond danger; a boy had been born. But as if to dampen the joy for the mother, a second message conveyed the sad tidings that the child was dead. For more than an hour the grand people of the Russian Court were deeply absorbed in conversation, bewailing the fate of the ill-starred babe and the deep disappointment of the noble parents. At length a third messenger came from the sick chamber, and the burden of his story was as joyful as that of the last had been sad. The Court physicians had succeeded in bringing to life what had, at the moment of birth, appeared to be a dead infant. The liveliest congratulations followed this announcement, and when the exultant father appeared at the door of the gorgeous salon, bearing in the arms his newly-born offspring, the gladness of those present knew no bounds, and overflowed with prayers for the safety and happiness of the little one. A tall majestic man of commanding form and imposing presence, to whom all seemed to pay extreme difference, stepped forward, and approaching the unconscious babe, christened him Colonel of the Ekaterinenburgh Infantry Regiment, an honor conferred as that age only on Princes of the blood Imperial. Thus came into the world ALEXEI ALEXANDROWITCH, grandson of the Czar NICHOLAS, who had just created him a Colonel, and son of the present Emperor of all the Russias. The magnificent cathedral of St. Isaac's in the Russian capital, for years past had not been filled by a more brilliant throng than the one which attended the solemnities amid which the newly-born Grand Duke ALEXIS was baptized at the same font from which, for nearly a hundred years past, the holy water had been sprinkled on the forehead of his ancestors. The whole Imperial family, including the Emperor and Empress, and all the Grand Dukes were present. Most of the foreign Courts were represented by Ministers attired in their robes of State, and the officers of the Imperial Life Guards were stationed at regular intervals in all parts of the vast building. After ALEXIS was removed from the baptismal font the Emperor NICHOLAS kissed his little grandson fondly on the forehead, and then tenderly embraced his son, the Grand Duke hereditary, ALEXANDER NICOLAIEWITCH.

For several years young ALEXIS remained in very feeble health. He was a sickly child, and it was generally believed that he would hardly survive the period of his boyhood. In the year 1854 he was a pale, sweet-faced boy, looking much younger than he really was, with large dark eyes and a beautiful head of blonde hair. The Grand Duchess MARIA often drove out with him in the gardens of Zarskoe-Selo, and the Emperor NICHOLAS never allowed them to pass without saying a kind word to his daughter-in-law and fondling his little grandson. Early in March, 1855, the Czar died, heart-broken, surrounded by his weeping family, every member of whom was devotedly attached to him. In the year 1856 the young Grand Duke accompanied his parents to their coronation at Moscow, and was then, for the first time, presented to the assembled representatives of the vast Russian Empire. When his mother, the new Empress—a beautiful woman, yet with the traces of the sufferings she had undergone for years very marked in her features—appeared, surrounded by her children, and bearing little ALEXIS in her arms, there was such a joyous shout as has seldom welcomed the action of an Imperial house. Upon the return of the Imperial family to St. Petersburg, the education of the young Prince immediately commenced. Two ladies—Mme. DE BERNARD, a Frenchwoman, and Fraulein VON JULITHNOFF, the orphan daughter of a Courland nobleman—were installed as his governesses. He proved an apt and tractable scholar, and not very many months passed before he was able to read Russian, French and German, and was perfectly able to understand any conversation addressed to him in either of those languages. In his seventh year the Grand Duke had a dangerous attack of measles. A Polish physician, whose great reputation and marvelous cures had attracted much attention in St. Petersburg, was called by the alarmed Emperor to the bedside of the young Prince. So skillful was the treatment which he prescribed that the patient not only speedily recovered, but his constitution from that time seemed to have been naturally invigorated by the ordeal through which he had passed. The Grand Duke meanwhile pursued his studies with unremitting attention and even ardor. The places which his governesses had thus far filled were taken by Prof. FARGANSON, who instructed him in mathematics and geography; Prof. VON STEIN, who taught him ancient and modern history, and Mr. GORDON, a Scotchman, who gave him lessons in English. The Prince was not yet twelve years of age, and yet was able to understand very well what was said to him in the English language, while he spoke

THE INDIANS.

The following is the full text of Mr. COZZENS's report on the Apache Indians, already briefly noticed in these columns:

The President, Secretary Interior and Secretary of War devoted over two hours yesterday in testimony to VINCENT COLYER's report on his recent visit among the Indians of Arizona and New-Mexico, which, as illustrated map extended across the floor of the Parlors of the Fifth-avenue.

After narrating, the enthusiastic way in which he was received by the Apaches, of their coming in scores from the hills and valleys all along the route, and even within three days of Camp Grant, in their feelings and desires to be assured that the reservations and agencies established for their protection would be continued, Mr. COLYER said that when he assured them that these promises would be kept, and that they would be protected and fed, he was entreated to remain with them, and the party, some 300 strong, would reach the next agency daylight the following morning, and would cross the reservation. I immediately located an encampment of Indians, and after consulting with my whole ten miles of the post, and sent a courier with a copy out to Agent the party, with instructions to report the result without delay. The courier returned about 9 o'clock in the morning, reported having found the agency, and delivered my communication, but I do not think the present strength of the command would be sufficient to guard against an attack similar to the one made here some months since. I am, the very respectfully, Your obedient servant,

WM. NELSON.

Captain Twenty-first Infantry, Commanding Post.

For the reasons set forth in this letter, which Mr. COLYER believed to be the only course he could pursue, he left Camp Grant, but was severely censured by General HOWARD.

Mr. COLYER read extracts from a letter he received from Gen. STONEMAN, Gov. CROOKE's predecessor in command in Arizona, showing that out of every hundred dollars that goes into Arizona, ninety-nine are sent there by the Government, that the officers, contractors, farmers, editors, freighters, drinking-saloon and gambling-shop keepers depend upon the army for support; that the annual expeditions of the War Department is over three and a half millions of dollars a year, and a second set about everywhere thousand Americans in the Territory in the field soon as they are now yelling so loudly against the Indian war, placing the Indians in reservations, and establishing peace. That the editors of the two small papers published in the Territory have no regard for truth, was shown by dozens of glaring falsehoods, and by their abuse of each other, and officially every officer of the army in the Territory. Mr. COLYER said they did not represent the sentiment of the miners and hardy frontiersmen, who he believed opposed the war by their immediate proximity, are in favor of peace, but only of the officials, contractors and hotel-keepers of the towns remote from danger, with whom they immediately associate.

Gen. STONEMAN says: "If the Indians cannot be fed on the reservations, they will be forced to steal, as the Government will not feed them, and when they have become quiet they cannot long remain so, as the whites will not remain quiet, but will expand and encroach whether or no."

He says to use charges indiscriminately, in that he did not go to Tucson and Prescott, hear the complaining white people and address the crowd. Mr. COLYER said that's true; he did not go there, but he was sent, and read extracts from the two newspapers in which the people were openly pounded on to mob, lynch or stone him to death, and private information assured him that the writers meant what they said.

On the contrary of the report the President decided that there was no discord between the Interior and War Departments. The Indians upon the reservations established by Mr. COLYER in Arizona, should be protected, and on all those outside, who refused to go in and be at peace, Gen. CROOK should attack and subdue.

The Gila River Reservation—Want of Water—Threatened Attack on the Whites.

UNITED STATES INDIAN AGENCY,
GILA RIVER RESERVATION, Arizona Territory,
Oct. 19, 1871.

Hon. Vincent Colyer, Secretary Board of Indian Commissioners:

DEAR SIR: I have the honor to forward, as per your request, the School Report of our Indian children. I also have to call your attention to another subject. When you were here it was supposed that there was plenty of water in the bed of the river above, that these would be a sufficient quantity to reach the lower points of this reserve, to enable our Indians to irrigate their fields as usual in producing them for the repetition of their crops. Though there was apparently plenty of water for this purpose, and though it continued to run for 3 miles after you left, it has now fallen to its normal state and not a drop of it has reached these lands. The time for preparing their lands is now at hand, but because no water they can do nothing.

People who have lived on the Gila for years tell me there never was such a thing as a dry river-bed on this reserve. The cause of the present state of affairs is, that the Mexicans have diverted the water from its natural course, and blame the settlers who live above us for taking away the water. On Sunday morning last CHIN-KUM, a Chief of the other lower village, and one of the best Chiefs on the reserve, came to me, and said that for many years he and his people had lived down where they planted, but now they had no water; while men up the river had water to irrigate their fields. He said a few months ago he made a treaty in talking me of his wrongs. He made a request that the chiefs of his tribe, which was to obtain time to take the warriors of his village, (numbering 37 men,) and by force or arms drive the whites from the River.

I told him I must have understood me that immediately told him that he must not go. I spent an hour in talking him of the renewal results which must surely follow such a step, and finally succeeded in showing him had to go, as that he told me this: That he would wait one month, and if the water did not come to them he would take his whole village, which numbers 300 souls, and move down to the Salt River cattle ranch, where he said there is always water. As the natives of the vicinity are, and have been for years, at enmity with these Indians, I assured him that a course would certainly be followed in the enemy him had to go, as that he told me this.

DAILY, WEEKLY AND SEMI-WEEKLY.

This journal is now thoroughly identified with the greatest political necessity of the hour—unceasing warfare against all forms of corruption, whether in national or local government. For years past the TIMES has been exposing the demoralizing schemes of self-interested politicians, and its records written upon the Tammany Democrats has been received with universal approval. It has adhered to the duties given in its original prospectus, made three years ago, that the public should be truly represented, and their interests faithfully guarded through its columns. Its record has been pure and honorable, and the highest aim of its proprietors is to render it more and more worthy of its past history, and of the confidence which the public repose in it. Two out of three of the original proprietors still direct its policy, and guide it on all public questions. They purpose that the TIMES shall continue to keep clear of all sectarian and unworthy influences and efforts, and aim to represent the great body of the public, as distinguished from personal factions. It occupies a perfectly independent position, and is free to speak the truth on all subjects and about all men. Its greatly increased circulation throughout the country adds to its power and influence. It will continue to be a faithful exponent of Republican principles, and advocate with untiring energy every measure which tends to further the welfare of the people.

The utmost care will be devoted to gathering political news from special sources during the Presidential canvass. The department of the paper will be unusually full and trustworthy. Reserved enterprise will be exhibited in every day number of the paper, and large space will be devoted to reports of speeches made during elections, or on other important political occasions.

A very full summary of news, and many general articles of great interest, are published in the Semi-weekly edition; and in the Weekly edition there is an abridged report of the proceedings at the Farmers' Club, an excellent summary of political information, and a great variety of matter suitable for family reading.

The NEW-YORK TIMES is pre-eminently a family paper, all objectionable advertisements being rigidly excluded; and it has a constantly increasing circulation among the most respectable classes of the community.

Our Opportunity.

Notwithstanding the efforts of certain journals to detract from the importance of the victory gained on Tuesday—the Tribune, for instance, having previously done its best to weaken the Reform Party by putting up such candidates as JOHN V. GRIDLEY, yesterday made a cool present of the State to the Democrats—notwithstanding these efforts, we say, the public may rest fully assured that a nobler triumph, or one destined to work a greater or more exalted influence over public life, has never been achieved in this City. There have been and will be objections to certain candidates. But the verdict of the people against dishonest rulers will be a warning to men of all parties that the day for using politics as a stepping-stone to self-interests is passing away. The theory that government is only organized robbery has received its death-blow. A man must be blind indeed not to see that Tuesday's election means that the public are determined to have a thorough reform in politics—that there is nothing to be gained now by any politician acting as if there were nothing dishonorable in cheating and swindling. Moreover, the candidates against whom special objections have been urged are solemnly pledged to assist in all works of reform. Many attacks have been made upon Senator O'BRIEN. Nevertheless, we know that he has been a determined foe of Tammany for a long period, and that he has done a great deal toward overthrowing it. In his speech on Tuesday night he made these remarks:

"You have put down one of the most corrupt factions that ever existed in any city of the world. In congratulating you on this victory, I cannot forget the great results to which it will surely lead in the future. You have honored me by electing me as your representative from this Senatorial district. You have placed confidence in me, and I here and now promise that that confidence shall not be misplaced, and that I will never deceive you. I will never forget that I am the representative of the people. I will do all that lies in my power to give you a better charter.—[applause]—and a fair Election Law.—[cheers]—and will always vote for any other measure by which I think the people will be benefited. I do not think I have ever deceived you in the past—[cries of 'never']—and my past record shall be my promise for the future. I have been sitting there and ever since I have been in politics, for they have always been full of deceit, and this glorious victory gained today is a result we have been battling for during the past five years."

These pledges, we believe, will be kept—and before condemning Mr. O'BRIEN it is only right that he should have a chance of proving what he means to do. Next session of the Legislature will show that—it is not long to wait. Remember that one of the journals which attack him does not hesitate to support men like JOHN V. GRIDLEY and HANK SMITH, and whitewashes SWEENY and Mayor HALL. Let every man be judged by his acts.

It is an enormous gain to have defeated NORTON, BRADLEY, GEGET and WOLFMAN, and to have secured the State Legislature. And let it be remembered that the people have accomplished these and other great results without getting the benefit of their full vote. Many frauds were practiced at the polls—the man employed by the Reform Party frequently changed their tickets for Tammany's, and thus deceived the voters. In one or two districts subsequent proceedings will be necessary to establish the result of the election. Inspite of all drawbacks, the people carried all that was of vital importance, and we trust they will continue to exercise the same energy and vigilance in watching their affairs. We particularly hope that the Committee of Seventy and the Young Men's Reform Association will become permanent organizations. They have done great good, and ought to be a source of continued usefulness. Instead of allowing "Rings" to be formed, let us henceforth crush them before they are formed. That method will save a great deal of money to the City, and spare the people all the trouble they have lately had. Let us not be in the hands of any man, or any set of men, but exercise a constant controlling influence over our own affairs. If that is done, we need not mind the croakings of disappointed factions—such as the faction which sees a bad man in Senator O'BRIEN, and only a man of "towering spirit" in PETER B. SWEENY, and an angel in JOHN V. GRIDLEY. Above all, let the "politicians" understand that the people will stand no more nonsense—they will have honest dealings, as between man and man, or exact a very bitter reckoning from defaulters.

We have now cleared the way for the great work before us, and that work will require all our time, care, and attention. We must secure the repeal of the present charter, and try to construct the Government of New-York on such a basis as that it may be worthy of the people, and last at least our time. We must obtain good Registry and Election laws, such as will absolutely prevent the monstrous frauds by means of which TWEED, HALL and SWEENY have so long been enabled to control the State. We must work for a reform of the Judiciary—an end not less noble or momentous than that for which we have successfully striven. We must have the Police force removed from the hands of rascally "Republicans" like HANK SMITH and BEN MANIERRE—of whom we shall have more to say very soon. We must get rid of the only remaining members of the Tammany gang without delay. TWEED is a great disgrace to the City; and it is an insult to the people that such a man as HALL should still be Mayor. The Herald backs him up, and will do so to the end—but let the people remember the part the Herald has taken in the recent fight, and then decide how much trust they will repose in it for the future. HALL is now the most slippery and dangerous enemy the people have to encounter—he will try to "remodel" the City Government, but it will only be a sham while he remains at the head of affairs. We must never pause until he is made to join SWEENY in retirement. Then the Herald may sing his praises, as it sung SWEENY's yesterday, and nobody will complain. If HALL is allowed to "reconstruct" the City Government, even by putting good men in SWEENY and CONNOLLY's places, we shall soon be worse off than ever—for he is a sly and adroit knave, without conscience or principle, and caring for nobody or nothing in the world but himself. He must go, and then we can have a "reconstruction" which means business.

We trust that the people who have stood by us in this long contest will go on with the good work. We shall strive as we have done throughout, to procure for the City a good government, without regard to party interests one way or the other; and if any public man proves faithless to his trust, we shall endeavor to reveal him in his proper colors, whether he calls himself a Republican or a Democrat.

Republican Victories of 1871.

The elections for the present year have now all been held, and the result has been an almost unbroken series of Republican victories. Commencing with the State of Connecticut in April last, the current of popular opinion has moved steadily onward in the same direction, including in its sweep the States of Maine, California, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Iowa, Rhode Island, and finishing up on Tuesday last with Massachusetts, New-Jersey, Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota and New-York. Everywhere in the Northern States, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the Republican Party has more than held its own, and, so far as can be judged, it is stronger with the people today than at any period of its existence. Indeed, it is the only party worthy of the name, now existing in the country. The opposing factions, classed under the general name of Democracy, are utterly demoralized and distracted, without union among themselves, without organization, without leaders and without principles. The only ties that bind them together are hatred of the patriotic Republican Party, that has ruled the country for the last ten years, and the common hankering for the spoils of office that have so long been out of their reach. Tammany Hall, their last stronghold, and the nucleus around which they hoped to rally for the campaign of 1872, has turned out to be only a den of thieves, and its inmates were routed on Tuesday last, and have now everything to fear from the terrors of the law.

We have no disposition to claim the conquest over Tammany Hall as a partisan victory, albeit the leading Democratic papers of the country were only a few months ago boasting of that rotten concern as being the hope and pride of the unterrified Democracy of the nation. The destruction of Tammany is due to that instinctive hatred of thieves, and that natural dislike to being robbed and plundered, which is common to honest men of all parties. But the election last Tuesday was something more than a victory over Tammany. It was a victory over the Democratic Party of the State, which for two years past has maintained its ascendency through frauds upon the ballot perpetrated by this very Tammany organization. An examination of the vote in this City will show that the Republican State ticket, which is elected by a majority of not less than ten thousand, received no aid from the uprising of the people here against the Tammany thieves. The regular Democratic State ticket received within 4,000 as many votes in this City as HOFFMAN received for Governor last year, and 8,000 more than the same ticket received in 1869, when, as now, no candidate for Governor was running. The large increase in the Republican vote in this City—from 54,301 last year, to 54,119 this—is evidently owing, therefore, not to accessions from the Democratic Party, but to the fact that thousands of our citizens who have not been in the habit of going near the polls in years past, were induced to come out this year and vote. It is safe to say that ninety per cent. of this class of citizens are Republicans, and whenever they vote at all, vote the Republican ticket. One of the principal reasons for their neglect of duty heretofore has been the uncertainty that their votes would be honestly counted. An extraordinary emergency having brought them to the polls, a fact which everybody suspected before, has now become evident—that the City of New-York is not so hopelessly and overwhelmingly Democratic as is generally supposed. It is doubtful whether on a full vote and a fair count, the Democratic Party would have over twenty thousand majority in this City. It certainly could not roll up any such majorities as it has during the last two or three years, and which have been the sole means through which it has retained power in the State. The uniform gains to the Republican ticket in the country districts prove the same thing. For years past, thousands of rural Republicans have kept away from the polls because they knew it would be useless to contend against the fraudulent majorities in this City, by which the Tammany thieves managed to swamp the State. Finding that Tammany was not going to have everything its own way this year, they were induced to go to the polls, and the result is seen in an increase of the Republican vote in almost every district in the State.

These things indicate clearly that the State of New-York, like nearly all of the Northern States, is decidedly and unmistakably Republican in sentiment, and that the sham Democracy has no more show here, under a fair and honest expression of the public voice, than it has in Massachusetts or Ohio. As the Republicans will have a two-thirds majority in both Houses of the Legislature next Winter, and can pass any laws they please independent of the Democratic Governor, we trust they will not fail to enact such Registry and Election laws as will put an effectual stop to all future frauds upon the ballot in this City. For the first time in the history of the Democratic Party, its opponents are promised the co-operation of at least a section of that party, in devising means to protect the purity of the ballot. We hope the Reform Democrats in the next Legislature will unite, in good faith, with the Republicans in passing stringent laws to secure that object; but, whether they will or not, the Republican Party owes it to itself and to the people of the State to see that such laws are enacted, with or without Democratic aid.

The People's Triumph.

The significance of our success on Tuesday should not be misunderstood by the regular professional politician, nor should its honors be misappropriated. Let no one presumptuously claim it as a party triumph. It was a movement of the great body of the people, irrespective of party distinctions. The honest citizens suddenly took the management of their own business into their own hands. Our citizens were resolved to do an earnest day's work in reforming municipal abuses. The sun set upon a victory which will strengthen the hands and cheer the hearts of misgoverned cities and States throughout the Union. But it was not, we repeat, the work of any one party—it required the union of honest men of both parties. And that union, thanks to the intelligence, energy, and courage of prominent merchants, bankers, lawyers, and others of both political parties, was gloriously successful. It proves what the people, when aroused, can accomplish. It proves, also, that the electors, practically as well as theoretically, are sovereign.

Tuesday's result justifies our confidence in the capacity of the people, even in large cities, for self-government. Leaving their ordinary avocations, our citizens gave up what time was required to work out a great reform. That duty discharged, and the object accomplished, we are all immensely benefited by the part we have taken in it. We are today breathing a purer political atmosphere. We see and feel that a brighter day has dawned upon us. There will be no more stolen millions. With a reformed Judiciary and an honest Legislature, we shall be able to compel the members of the Tammany Ring, who have suddenly acquired fabulous amounts of real estate, and occupy "palatial residences," to make restitution. Mr. SWEENY has already resigned his office as Commissioner of Parks; the next proper thing for him to do is to return the money wrongfully taken from the City upon an antedated armory lease. This is a transaction which the papers praising Mr. SWEENY strangely overlook. Mr. TWEED will, in all probability, resign his seat in the Senate, while if TOM FIELDS dared to shew his vicious face in the Assembly Chamber, he would only provoke an investigation into the $400,000 firemen's swindle. It might even be asked whether a man guilty of his abominable offences in other respects is fit to take part in the serious work now before us.

The Committee of Seventy and the "Reformed Democrats" have done their full share of the good work, and their reward consists in the knowledge that they have saved their own property from further devastation, and rescued the City from financial ruin. Among individuals, however deserving others are of commendation, it will not be deemed invidious to say that to WM. F. HAVEMEYER, CHAS. O'CONOR and SAMUEL J. TILDEN a large share of credit is due. Mr. ANDREW H. GREEN, by stepping promptly into the breach and boldly exposing the frauds of the Ring, has added new lustre to his well established reputation. Nor should it be forgotten that the City and the people are largely indebted to JAMES O'BRIEN for the exposure of the frauds, robberies, and forgeries of the Ring. Let us hope that all who have been engaged in the good work will remember the really solemn lessons of this memorable election, and combine in good faith together for the common good of the community.

The Indians of Arizona.

Sympathy for the red man is often invoked, and his treatment by the encroaching whites mournfully deprecated. To drive the unfortunate aborigines from the lands that once were theirs, to force them further and further west, now beyond the Alleghanies, now beyond the Mississippi, and at last to confront them with a fresh line of civilization from the Pacific, crushing them, as it were, between an upper and nether millstone, seems cruel if not unjustifiable. The precise measure of responsibility here is, indeed, a perplexing theme for the moralist. All must own the deep pathos of the Indian's situation, and all who are capable of putting themselves in his place must admit how strong is his excuse for implacable resentment. Yet if we change the point of view, if we abandon the sentimental stand-point in behalf of the red man, and look through the eyes of the frontiersman, with whom he is in immediate contact, our impressions undergo a change. If ever the gods made a whole people mad with intent to destroy them, it must surely be this unhappy race; for constantly and persistently, since the Mayflower first dropped anchor in Plymouth Bay, have they courted their fate by challenging that law of self-preservation which their stronger opponents have been constrained to obey.

The old, sad story is told over again in a petition to President GRANT, now being circulated in Arizona. It says many things, but it substantially means one thing, and that is extermination for the Apaches. It means this none the less that its prefatory sentence declares that the petitioners desire nothing more earnestly than peace with that tribe. They complain that last Spring many of their number, utterly disheartened by their sufferings and losses from the hostile Indians, prepared to leave Arizona altogether. At this juncture, however, Gen. GEORGE CROOKE was assigned to the command of the Department, and this gave the settlers new hope. They thought matters would be regulated with a strong, swift, and stern hand and were willing to wait the result. But they were doomed to disappointment. For, just as Gen. CROOKE had matured his plans, and was about to put them in force, the whole matter was taken out of his hands and placed in those of the Peace Commissioners. The utter dismay and sickness of heart with which the settlers heard of this change of purpose by the authorities is significant and melancholy. Taught by practical experience, they have not the least faith that any treaty of peace to which the Apache is an equal party can be lasting; and they remonstrate with much apparent reason against lodging the power to make such treaties in any hands not likewise intrusted with the power to punish their violation. The policy of the Agent in proposing to continue the practice of giving asylum and aid at military posts indiscriminately to all Indians choosing to seek it, they likewise bitterly condemn. It results, they declare, the past has shown in the warriors leaving their families and property in security while they scour the country on marauding expeditions, to return with scalps and plunder to the protection of the posts.

The petitioners ask to be explicitly informed whether it is the design of the Government to place the management of affairs pertaining to Indians in Arizona, not now living on reservations, in the hands of the Peace Commissioners, or under the control of the Department commander; and declare that, if the policy inaugurated by the agent of the Peace Commission is to be persisted in, the deserted homes of their "friends and neighbors, and the graves of those slain by the Apaches which line every road and trail, and fill every graveyard in Arizona warn" them that, if they remain, they must expect a similar fate. In other words, in the one case they will remain, and in the other emigrate; and as the petition is actually said to be signed by the great majority of the adult population, the matter is very serious. We should add that the prayer of the petition is based by evidence of its propriety; for, attached to the petition is a list of murders, thefts, arsons and other outrages committed by the Apaches during the past few years, which have been recorded—the presumption being that numbers of other such crimes have been perpetrated, and, never heard of. The list in question is an appalling one, and it fills in fine type three of the long columns of the Alta California, in its issue of Oct. 26. More devilish atrocities have never been heard of on the American Continent, and it is impossible to look through the horrible catalogue without feeling deep sorrow for the pioneers and their families who first went into the wilderness, and sympathetic approval of the petition of their successors.

It is, we repeat, the old, sad story. From a distance the world looks at the case in its sentimental aspect; close at hand it is seen in the light of hard facts. The theory of the business is one thing, the practice another. On the one hand we naturally feel for the poor Red Men, whose lands have been stolen and whose bodies have been poisoned by fire-water; and on the other, these sorely-pressed countrymen of ours, with their slaughtered friends and brothers, with their ruined homes and tortured wives and massacred children, cry out to us for protection, if not for revenge.

Border Humors.

The humor of the Great West is peculiar, and not readily understood in more conservative communities. What has been called physical wit is there often carried to an excess which the most reckless of practical jokers hereabouts would hardly venture to imitate. It rarely reaches, perhaps, the extravagant pitch of that Tennessee gentleman, who lately shot his best friend purely "for fun, to see how he would take it." But factious violence, stopping only just short of that exquisite pleasantry, is the commonest form of prairie humor. What could be more delightful in its way than the last story told of the celebrated "Wild Bill," who is said to have shot a man one day and paid his funeral expenses the next? Quite as remarkable was a little joke played by certain Western humorists about a week ago in the town of Gibson, in the Indian Territory.

A few choice spirits, under the lead of three jovial fellows, the St. Louis Republican pervasively styles them notorious villains—known by the poetical titles of "Limber Jack," "Posey Bill," and "Keno Bill," found themselves one pleasant morning comfortably drunk in Gibson, and with no immediate prospect of amusement. One of these bright inspirations common to the fertile Western mind suggested that much sport would be realized by simply mounting their horses, riding furiously about the town, and firing their revolvers at random. The idea was instantly carried out with the most flattering success. All along the route of the gay procession the tradesmen closed their shops, the better to enjoy the fun, and it was not until several persons had been wounded, and the town was about to be put to the torch, that the citizens began to think the joke had gone far enough. They made known the impression to "Limber Jack" and his merry crew. But when did a practical joker realize that it was time to stop? "Limber Jack" only laughed incredulously, and gave the word to destroy the largest warehouse in the place. There was evidently no resource but to turn the laugh on these incorrigible jokers, which the citizens accordingly did with a well-directed volley. "Limber Jack" was shot in the face and lungs, and his interest in the sports consequently began to slacken, and the waggish party withdrew. "Keno Bill," however, was captured, and the citizens, to carry out their side of the joke, at first determined to hang him. In consideration, doubtless, of the rare and excellent wit of the whole proceeding, they let him go with an admonition not to come back.

Everything having resulted so pleasantly, with the exception of the slight accident to "Limber Jack," there seemed no reason why a jest so piquant, and apparently so highly relished by even its victims, should not be indefinitely repeated. But unluckily and unexpectedly the United States Marshal at Fort Smith, Arkansas, developed a deplorable deficiency of humor. He actually pursued the jocose "Keno" and the facetious "Limber" and, having caught them, turned them over to the United States authorities for punishment. It may comfort the good people of Gibson, nevertheless, to remember that "Posey Bill" still remains at large to invent new games for their amusement. Next time, perhaps, he will burn the town and shoot the inhabitants by the light of the conflagration.

Much Ado About Nothing.

The alliance which was lately reported to have been made in England between some Conservative noblemen and gentlemen and the representatives of the artisan class, possesses, as we have already explained, very little political or social importance. There has long existed in England among moderate, sensible men, a strong opinion that, although the plan of leaving a nation to do everything for itself has no doubt much in its favor, it can be carried too far. In the course of a debate last session, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. LOWE, said: "Ours is not a paternal Government." But many people responded: "Then, why isn't it?" The fact has long been obvious to those who have studied the lower classes in England that they need the help of those above them. It is useless merely to give the franchise to persons who are too ignorant to know how to apply it to their benefit. The poorer British artisan and peasant requires to be protected from the class immediately above him. It used to be said that no one used a "nigger" worse than a "nigger," and no one is harder on a pauper tenant than a small shop-keeper landlord, and no one extracts more work on harder terms from a laborer than a small farmer. Two of the greatest hardships to which the poor are subjected arise from bad habitations and defective drainage, but it may be stated as a rule to which there are but few exceptions, that such miseries are rare on great estates. The pioneers of improvement in these matters have been, as they ought to be, great landlords, such as the late Duke of BEDFORD and Lord HERBERT; but an immense deal of suffering is experienced in small towns and villages, owned by small local magnates.

Very much misery of this kind might be checked by Government interference, and the appointment of Sanitary Inspectors endowed with great powers, acting under the authority of the London Board, and quite independent of local jobbery. Again, Government influence might well be exerted to insist on railway companies extending more convenience to the working classes. The gentlemen whose names were mentioned in connection with the new alliance are, for the most part, men of great benevolence, intimately acquainted with the state of their poorer neighbors, and unquestionably anxious, from the purest motives, to assist them. The so-called coalition was, in reality, nothing more than a vague kind of combination of benevolent persons, having for its object the improvement of the position of the laborer and poorer artisan, as regards the comforts and conveniences of life. Such an association, without proceeding to deal with the great questions arising between capital and labor, or the more equal division of the soil, would not be without a certain political influence in securing that sympathy between class and class which the accomplished and excellent Judge TALFOURD said from his seat on the Bench, a few minutes before his death, was of all things in the world that which was most needed in English society.

The rural classes as a rule are comparatively little influenced by passing events, and are ignorant of the very existence of BRADLAUGH and ODGER. There are still millions of persons in England whose reading never extends beyond spelling out, on Sunday afternoon, paragraphs from a weekly county newspaper; while as many have never seen any town larger than the capital of their county, and often only visit that two or three times in their lives. Unquestionably the Radicals in towns like Leeds, Nottingham, Sheffield and Manchester have great influence, and are many of them disposed for change; but it matters really became very serious, and a tussle was threatened, there is in the country a dead weight of both educated and uneducated moderate conservatism, which the free trade of manufacturing socialism might find it rather tiresome work to push out of the way.

It is to be borne in mind, too, that Mr. BRADLAUGH and his friends are avowed free thinkers and unbelievers, and there is at this moment a latent power in the ministers of religion of all denominations, which, if vigorously asserted in combination, would have an overwhelming effect. It is not, be it remembered, as in France, where religion is the exclusive property of women. In England, where infidelity and socialism are the foes to be encountered, Church-man and Dissenter, Protestant and Catholic, would join hands. Circumstances have certainly proved that Mr. GLADSTONE and his Cabinet have unfortunately been too much engrossed with certain great political aims to recognise sufficiently the wants of the working class in their daily life. In his ardor for the ballot, Mr. FORSTER has overlooked the fact that to the ordinary laborer, cheap and expeditious traveling, enabling him to move about in quest of work, would be a more grateful boon; and while Mr. GLADSTONE has been battling for great principles, nothing has been effected toward punishing the adulterators of poor men's food; or toward compelling landlords to give a peasant a cottage fit for human beings to inhabit, and water unimpregnated with cesspools. After all, the comforts of their daily life are of far greater consequence to ordinary men than abstract political advantages, and the indifference displayed on such points by a professedly "People's Minister," has no doubt disappointed millions.

The Brooklyn Elections.

It was made tolerably apparent two years ago that the character of the men who were appointed in Brooklyn to exercise the important functions of inspectors of election was but slightly better than that of the same officers in New-York. This year it would seem that it has become a trifle worse. At an hour when all the returns in this City were complete, even in the presence of mullen and hesitating delay, only six wards out of the twenty-two in Brooklyn had been heard from. If District-Attorney MORRIS had not been whipped into the traces by the Brooklyn Ring, some of the worthies who took twenty-four hours to make up their minds about the contents of Tuesday's ballot-boxes, would have been prevented from repeating the dirty work of 1869 by a prior engagement at the State Prison. The counsel for the ballot-stuffers and election return thieves of two years ago, is the District-Attorney elect of Brooklyn, and his masters are as ready as ever to furnish funds for the defense of their tools. The Republicans and Reformers, who have resolved to investigate the frauds perpetrated at the polls and during the canvass of Tuesday's vote will therefore have a difficult task in bringing the offenders to justice. With the example of New-York before them, they may obtain at the hands of the State the prosecution of criminals whom the city authorities will doubtless shield.

Even after the Fifth Ward repeaters and the dishonest inspectors have done their worst, the result in Brooklyn is a decided Republican triumph. The vote was unusually heavy, nearly 7,000 more having voted on the Mayoralty ticket than were polled for Governor in 1869. POWELL, the Democratic candidate for Mayor, has been elected by a majority of 4,439 over BOOTH, Republican. Of the 16,939 votes cast for KALBFLEISCH, who headed a City Reform ticket, unquestionably a very large proportion were Republicans. For this result, the party leaders in Brooklyn are, to a considerable degree, responsible. In the Assembly districts there is the startling gain of four Assemblymen. Last year, eight out of the nine members of the Kings County delegation were Democrats; this year five out of the nine are Republicans. The Second Senatorial District has dealt with PIERCE, the stolid and venal ally of Tammany, as the Fifth and Eighth dealt with NORTON and GEGET, and has returned JOHN C. PERRY, a Republican of unblemished character and of undoubted ability. On the city ticket the only certain victory of a Republican candidate is that of FREDERICK H. SMITH, who has been elected Controller in place of the Democratic incumbent, JOHNSON, of dubious record.

Doubts have been expressed whether the votes counted in the Fifth and Sixth Wards do not outnumber the entire citizenship of those wards. When we find that in a ward decidedly Republican, like the Twenty-first, the votes are one for every seven of the entire population by the last census, while in the Fifth and Sixth Wards the proportion is one in five, it seems exceedingly probable that there has been gross cheating both at the polls and in the canvass. Brooklyn evidently needs an improved Election Law as urgently as does New-York.

MINOR TOPICS.

In the general rejoicing over the splendid victory of yesterday one thing should not be lost sight of, and that is the necessity of visiting prompt and stern retribution on those who tried by fraud or violence to cheat the people out of their votes. Where frauds were made and purged out, in a number of cases the perpetrators are under arrest. In others, witnesses of the frauds are not wanting. The Executive Committee of the Apollo Hall Reform Democrats has already appointed a Subcommittee to attend to these cases, bring them to light, and prosecute them to the utmost. These persons cannot indemnify themselves nicely in the event of failure against the suffering by the County. If we can touch the conscience that it is dangerous to tamper with or to vote on false names, to intimidate or menace a voter, or to commit perjury, we have gone a good way toward keeping the management of their own affairs in the hands of the people.

The retirement of the Tammany organization friends to the walls which its black, swilling Department of Buildings have planned as a mound. The silliest period by Mr. HALE yet to have a serious liability of yielding to the first violent pressure applied to them. Last year one of them toppled down before a gale of wind, and yesterday another tumbled into ruins under the hammering which intended its making down after a fire. By extraordinary good luck, though eleven men were buried under the falling wall, there was nobody killed. One efficient officer of the Fire Brigade was, however, seriously injured, and now lies in terrible suffering, as the forcible commentary on the striking efficiency of Superintendent KINGSFORD. Fresh and blood is not yet so cheap in this City that we can allow this notice Department to continue much longer the strategy now in force of Mr. HALE or of any other leader.

DISRAELI, the Prince of Chief-makers, returned to the City in time to see the consummation of his work. The wonder is that he did not make a hurried departure again for a certain climate where he found that Tammany had fallen through his ill-got sand-bottom. Fortunately for the interests of justice, TWEED is still as much master of DISRAELI as he is of the Sixth Ward, and the representative of half the swindling contracts for the Court-house remains accordingly to perform the last service his patron will require of him—a public and most sweeping. The former which DISRAELI will set in a Court of Justice, will certainly be a pitiful one. GARVEY swearing before the chosen of a Custom-house officer, will find a counterpart in the guilty potentates of DISRAELI revolving itself under the searching cross-examination to which new attempts at a personal defense will subject the fat-witnessing agent of the "Boss."

The people of the First District of Queens County have returned their last year's Assemblyman, Hon. L. BRADFORD PRINCE, by a majority of eleven hundred and sixty-nine, or nearly double the majority they gave him last year. In view of the fact that Mr. PRINCE is a Republican, while the district is strongly Democratic, this may be considered about as emphatic an endorsement of his record last year as any man could ask for; and it also shows how little influence certain Metropolitan journals have among intelligent readers.

The Mormon ladies, in their petition to the wife of President GRANT, given in another column, assure her that they appreciate their husbands "as highly as it is possible for true, honored Madams, to appreciate yours." The idea of the merely fractional interest in a husband which the unsympathetic Gentile mind associates with polygamy does not appear to assure Julius, discomfited Mormon spouse. In spite of occasional typography in statement, the petition in question has touches of genuine pathos which even its absurdities cannot impair.

How to provide suitable employment for the thousand or more young men and women who walk about the streets of Portland, Me., in idleness, has lately been the all-absorbing topic of discussion in that city. The rate of municipal taxation continues so high that local capitalists have been unable to appropriate the license they exhausted through the great fire in 1866, by engaging in manufactures. For their relief, and in order to induce capitalists from other States to invest, it is now proposed that the Common Council shall pass a resolution exempting from taxation for a period of five or ten years all factories started within the city limits during 1872. A writer in the Portland Star makes the further suggestion that an advertisement something like the following should receive wide publicity:

"The City of Portland has voted to exempt from taxation, for from five to ten years, all manufactories started within its limits in the year 1872, and the Boards of Aldermen and C having been chosen by the Board of Trade for the purpose, are now prepared to cordially receive and assist by giving all the desired information needed, introducing to our prominent business men and our monied institutions, all persons or firms from all quarters, who are desirous of starting manufactories of any kind in our midst."

Requests to the Colored People of Florida.

From the Tallahassee (Fla.) Sentinel.

We understand that the late BUCKINGHAM SMITH, Esq., of St. Augustine, bequeathed his entire property in trust for the benefit of the colored people of St. Augustine. Dr. O. BROWNE, who is constituted by his will the trustee, proposes to dispose of Mr. SMITH'S handsome estate in that city, valued at $60,000, and to apply the proceeds with other property in the establishment of a hospital for the colored people, or an asylum for the aged and orphans, or an academy for the education of youth. It is said that Mr. SMITH left about $25,000 or $30,000. We believe that this is the first instance in the South of an act of this character. Mr. SMITH was a Georgian by birth, but a firm and unwavering Unionist throughout the rebellion; and this magnificent donation, so unselfishly bestowed, proves that BUCKINGHAM SMITH, who in the hour of peril remained true to his country, in the recent days of social proscription had the courage to defy its bitterest prejudices.

OTHER STATE ELECTIONS.

Massachusetts Returns Her Usual Majority.

Gain of Eighteen Republicans in the Maryland Assembly—Mississippi Gives a Majority of 15,000—Detroit Republican for the First Time in Twelve Years—Other Republican Gains.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—The result of yesterday's election is just this: Republican State officers; an entire Republican Executive Council, six of its eight members being re-elected; an overwhelming Republican Legislature, and a majority of Republican county officers. Returns have been received from all but twenty-five towns, and the full official vote can be known in a few days. The following table, which includes this city, shows a Republican loss of 1,551, and a Democratic loss of 1,262: while the Labor Reformers and Prohibitionists have fallen off from 3,136 to 1,325. ROSS, BUTLER'S county, shows a Democratic gain of 1,200, a Republican gain of 764, and a loss in the remaining vote of 1,000. LOWELL, BUTLER'S home, also shows a Democratic gain; and these results are taken as an indication that BUTLER helped the Washburn ticket as little as he could. The Senate stands as follows: Republicans, 31; Democrats, 6; doubtful, 1; and the House—Republicans, 178; Democrats, 51; Distinct Labor Reformers, 21; not reported, 4. Eleven of the Senators of last year and fifty-two members of the last House are re-elected. The Democrats stand to the Senate about as last year, and therefore make a slight gain in numbers in the House; but for this they are indebted to the Labor Reform faction, and will have to pay for it by advocating some of their "isms" this winter. The party duty of the Labor Reformers consists some fifteen or twenty thousand votes. You know they expected to throw 12,000 votes for them. Gubernatorial candidates, and they won't receive half of that number. Neither are the Prohibitionists very jubilant. Their vote has fallen off from 6,000 for TRASK, last year, to 4,313, a loss of a third. You can safely record Massachusetts as Republican by 30,000 plurality.

RECAPITULATION BY COUNTIES.

They have elected a portion of the members of the Legislature in Allegany, Washington and Caroline Counties, and the local officers in several other counties. MISSISSIPPI.

Republican Victory in Mississippi—The Majority Fifteen Thousand.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 8.—The State election took place yesterday. Everything was conducted in a most orderly manner. No threatened troops were reported from any quarter. The Republicans have carried the State by a majority of probably 15,000 popular vote. The contest was for members of the Legislature. The lower House is claimed by both parties. Neither party can have a majority of more than four or five members. The Senate is conceded to the Republicans by twelve or fifteen majority. The vote in the river counties was small, on account of the prevalence of yellow fever there. Heavy rains prevailed today, and cold weather is expected to set in in a few days.

MINNESOTA.

The Republican State Ticket Elected by 10,000 to 12,000 Majority.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 8.—Returns from 663 points reached by telegraph indicate the election of the Republican State ticket by from 9,000 to 10,000 majority. Gov. AUSTIN (Republican) runs behind his ticket; also, TERRIMON (Republican) Secretary of State, owing to the diversion of the Scandinavian vote. St. Paul and Ramsey Counties give YOUNG, (Democratic,) for Governor, 32 majority, while BUELL, (Democratic,) for Lieutenant-Governor, has 512 majority.

Returns from seventy-eight towns and cities give AUSTIN 3,128; YOUNG, (Democratic,) 1,605; AUSTIN'S majority so far, 1,523.

ILLINOIS.

Success of the Union Ticket in Chicago—The Vote for Congressmen.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—The entire official vote of the city has not yet been obtained, but MCALLISTER'S majority will be about 12,250. GAGE'S majority for Treasurer is a little larger, but the balance of the ticket is a little less. The total vote is about 54,000. Fifteen "Fire Proof" Aldermen and five Opposition have been elected.

BRYANT'S Republican Congressman has about 3,000 majority in the city, and 5,000 in the county.

VIRGINIA.

No Important Change in the Legislature.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 8.—The election returns to-day indicate that the House of Delegates will be about of the same political complexion as the last, which was two-thirds Conservative. The Republicans have probably gained one or two Senators.

MINOR ELECTIONS.

Increased Republican Majorities in Kansas—The Republicans Carry Detroit—Mobile Municipal Election—Other Events.

LEAVENWORTH, Kansas, Nov. 7.—The indications from returns now in are that the Republicans have carried the State by increased majorities.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 8.—For the first time in twelve years, the Republicans have carried this city. MOFFAT'S majority for Mayor is 822—a Republican gain of 1,200. The Common Council stands, 14 Republicans to 6 Democrats.

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 8.—An election for Sheriff and other county officers took place yesterday, which resulted in Mobile County in an average Democratic majority of about 2,200. The poll was very large, being 10,206 for the city and county; and although contested with unusual persistence, passed off without the slightest disturbance of the peace. The Radical candidate for Sheriff was a negro, and the majority of the Radical candidates were blacks.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 8.—Hon. SAMUEL W. RICE, an Ex-Supreme Court Judge, and a leading Republican in Alabama, is defeated for the Legislature by KNOX, by over 3,000 majority. KNOX was voted for by a secret Republican military organization known as the National Guards, which Rice denounced.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 8.—Official returns from all the wards elect the entire Brooks ticket headed by Gen. CATTERSON for Mayor, by an average majority of 2 to 1. Gen. CATTERSON is the recently-suspended United States Marshal, and represented the Republican opposition to Senator CLAYTON.

ATCHISON, Kan., Nov. 8.—The entire Republican ticket was elected in this county yesterday by majorities ranging from 60 to 800. In Doniphan, Nemaha and Marshall Counties the Republicans elect their officers.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The District Legislature convened today, in conformity with the proclamation of Gov. COOKE, for the purpose of providing means to liquidate the indebtedness of the old municipal corporations of Washington, Georgetown, and the county comprising that portion of the District outside the corporations which has been under the jurisdiction of the Levy Court. The organic act of the present District Government required this indebtedness to be carefully ascertained by auditing all the outstanding claims which has been done, and the Governor now recommends that it be liquidated by issuing a series of certificates of indebtedness, running over a series of years, with a certain limited amount payable from taxation each year. The amount to be provided for is about $600,000.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Gov. JEWELL of Connecticut, was in the city today and had an interview with the President and with Secretary DELANO.

Vice-President COLFAX has been again put to the necessity of writing privately to a prominent journalist to put down the oft renewed story that he is to be used by certain politicians as the means of preventing the renomination of President GRANT. The last reiteration of this scheme was put forth in such a manner as to justify what otherwise would have been needless, viz.: A new expression of adhesion to his present determination to retire from public life and of devotion to President GRANT.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

TRANSFER OF CASES IN THE SUPREME COURT.

For the information of counsel it should be stated that all cases continued at this term of the Supreme Court of the United States, after Monday next, will be put at the foot of the calendar of the next term, unless otherwise specially ordered by the Court. This will put all cases so continued over for at least two years.

REPORT OF THE CONTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY.

The report of the Controller of the Currency has been completed, and it is now in the hands of the printer. The recommendations of the Controller are very brief and refer particularly to protections against counterfeits, alluded to in his last annual report, wherein it was suggested that false or forged national bank notes be stamped with the word "counterfeit," on presentation at the counter of the bank, and in requiring bonds when the capital is seriously impaired, to make up the losses by an assessment on its stockholders or go into liquidation and be closed. The Controller has not adopted the several recommendations contained in the reports of previous years, because of the evident unwillingness of Congress and the public to adopt them.

ARIZONA INDIAN QUESTION.

An order will issue from the War Department, probably to-morrow, placing the Indians of Arizona under the direct control of Gen. SCHOFIELD, and instructions will be given to bring them all in upon reservations and to keep them upon such reservations. While there they will be fully protected in all their rights by the Government, and if they leave to go upon the war path they will be punished.

APPOINTMENTS.

WENDELL PHILLIPS AT HOME.

An Hour With the "Great Reformer"—The Grant Administration—The Future of the Republican Party—New-York Corruption—The Great Work of the Times, &c.

BOSTON, Monday, Nov. 6, 1871.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The late November afternoon was drawing to a close as your correspondent hastened his steps across the historic and, by Bostonians, much-vaunted Common—leaf-strewn and well nigh deserted by its accustomed crowds of gay promenaders—to fulfill the purpose which had brought him to the "Modern Athens," viz., to pay his respects to her distinguished private citizen, the first of American orators and philosophers—Mr. WENDELL PHILLIPS.

A SPARTAN SIMPLICITY OF HOME.

The residence occupied by Mr. PHILLIPS for many years, except during occasional Summer absences from the city, is an old-time, exceedingly humble-looking two-and-a-half-story building in Essex-street, a cosy, sequestered nook in the heart of the city. The house, like almost all of the old-style residences one meets with in Boston, smacking of revolutionary times and legends, is built close upon the street, with no grass-plot or railing intervening between it and the narrow sidewalk. The door, approached by two steps from the pavement, is framed under a projecting arch of curious fashion of construction, with the same "PHILLIPS" rudely painted upon one of the panels. Altogether, in the appearance of his dwelling and its surroundings, it is just such a simple abode as in a large city would be supposed to be within reach of and likely to be occupied by an industrious artisan or person of very limited means. Yet under the lowly roof has dwelt for years the seer whose prophetic lips, long in advance, have foretold page after page of our awfully-enacted American history—the scorned and reviled "fanatic" of yesterday, but the justified champion of human rights of today—he, to whose Cincinnatus lowliness of abode, gladly and proudly, as on a pilgrimage to a shrine, have journeyed the admirers attracted by a fame that has penetrated every quarter of the civilized world. Possessing an income far beyond his simple expenditures, the receipts derived from his numerous lecturing engagements, with all other superabundant means, are expended annually in deeds of charity. Of his silent, unostentatious gifts to the needy, much of which never reaches the ear of the public, whose loiters around among the humbler of the old residents of Boston will bear many affecting narrations. A leveller in theory, MR. PHILLIPS is conscientious to a degree rare in our time, that his every-day life and practice should correspond strictly with the enunciation of his public opinions. Thus the interior of his home, and the appliances for creature comforts, nothing could be simpler. Only books and pictures, and the brooding presence of culture and high refinement beautifying all, make different the home of the thinker, the humanitarian, the nation's foremost orator, from the humble abode of one of the toiling masses, for the amelioration of whose condition his life is henceforth consecrated.

THE GRANT ADMINISTRATION.

Seated in the library, after some desultory conversation respecting Massachusetts politics and the growing strength in Europe and America of the labor movement, your correspondent turned the discourse upon national affairs, the policy of the Administration respecting the Southern States, so bitterly assailed by the Conservative Press, &c.

CORRESPONDENT—What do you think of President GRANT'S chances of a renomination to the Presidency in 1872?

MR. PHILLIPS—On the whole, good. Within another year—within a few months, probably—we will see GRANT add another to his already strong chances of success. He has now four great points in his favor: The Fifteenth Amendment, the Ku-Klux, reduction of the national debt and the assault on the citadel of Mormonism. Let him add a fifth strand to the cord—labor—and his position will be impregnable. Whoever carries the most radical banner wins the next Presidency. Let GRANT raise it, and, with his past popularity yet essentially returned, his nomination and re-election are reduced to a certainty. North and South alike, recruits in vast numbers will be added to his standard. The labor vote thrown in the next Presidential election will not be less than two hundred thousand. Let GRANT, as all the indications point that he will, attract this vast element of strength to his side by a generous espousal of the cause of the working man, and he will ride into power on a greater wave of popularity than that which gave him his first election. All the carelessness and magnificence of strength put forth by SUMNER in the East, or by CARL SCHURZ in the West, in that case, will be powerless to avert it. The people will sustain Him. In the hollow of his hand, by the meting out or withholding of justice, he holds his success or his failure.

THE FUTURE OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

CORRESPONDENT—Will the Republican Party remain the dominant political party of the nation beyond the next Presidency?

MR. PHILLIPS—That depends upon its own quickness of apprehension and resoluteness of retention of the higher principles. I assume as granted that in the nigh-at-hand November elections the State of New-York, whatever may be the result in the Metropolis, will be added to the long list of Republican victories. The "Empire State," wrested from the Democracy, will leave them without a stronghold, almost without a nucleus whereupon to work for a Presidential candidate. A "new departure," greater than that which VALLANDIGHAM attempted to inaugurate, is in that case inevitable. What the programme is likely to be is already foreshadowed by the speeches and editorials of Western politicians and journalists. The struggle will be within the lines of the Republican Party. A disintegrating process, which may be fatal to that organization or strengthening and purifying, will be the consequence. In such a warfare, bitter and protracted, perhaps, beyond any which this country has yet witnessed—the new party being sure to draw off thousands of Conservative Republican votes—only by the adoption of the most aggressive radical policy can the Republican Party, in such an emergency, preserve its existence. The fiasco of the last Democratic Convention—which failed to nominate CHASE when he stood ready to make the plunge into the depths of infamy—is not likely again to occur to the party thirsting for a share of the spoils of the National Government. Only by building anew, upon the corner-stone of justice, and by the fullest recognition of the sacred rights of humanity can the Republican Party hope to retain its lease of power.

NEW-YORK CORRUPTION.

Upon the developments of the astounding Tammany frauds in New-York, MR. PHILLIPS spoke at length, declaring that the present was a supreme moment in the history of that long, most misgoverned and robber-despoiled Metropolis. If in this death-grapple of the honest of her citizens, aroused at last to a sense of their imminent peril, iniquity, the most glaring and shameless ever beheld in a free Government, is not strangled;—now, with the Times and the righteous indignation of all classes on the side of the people, and a reign of honesty and decency inaugurated, there is little reason for believing that any reform will be accomplished in the Municipal Government of New-York within this generation. If the millionaire plunderers of the City Treasury cannot be made to suffer for their misdeeds, and be hurled from power in the majestic uprising of the people, as is ever be more successfully attempted! Having tested their invulnerability of position, they will henceforth be more shameless and arrogant. Fraud, even with subsequent changes of rulers, will be perpetuated. Time will only render the yoke of bondage—the intelligent to the ignorant, the honorable to the knavish—the more galling. The Jest Finks and Tweeds—the breed of numerous millionaires—will multiply. Republicanism, in the government of large cities, will stand a confessed failure. If the City of New-York does not redeem herself upon the 7th of November next I fear she will go down crushed beneath the weight of fraud and iniquity. One of the most hopeful signs for her resurrection to a new life is the awakening of the Press to its present position upon the side of the Reformers. For this all honor is due to the unexampled heroism of the NEW-YORK TIMES. To that journal the thanks of every lover of free institutions are justly due. Its magnificent services in the cause of justice, calmly and unflinchingly unveiling corruption defying the most formidable and unscrupulous money power the world has ever known, are unparalleled in the history of journalism. How for months it stood alone in its gallant warfare upon the seemingly omnipotent Ring, wholly unsupported by the as yet indifferent or emboldened press, will never be forgotten by the American public. It was marvelous for three things—the chivalrous motive or high impulse which prompted to the work; the energy and commanding talent with which, in the face of all obstacles, it was pursued to such momentous results; and the fidelity to principle, which withstood every flattering assertion or attempt at bribery.

DEFECTS OF OUR INSTITUTIONS.

CORRESPONDENT—What is the true remedy for corruption in politics? I refer to the problem that should engage the earnest, conscientious thought of American statesmen. If, by these developments of glaring Tammany frauds, the attention of the widest desire of the country is riveted to a serious contemplation of the matter, the millions sunk in the Empire City will result in an incalculable gain to the nation. Our machinery of government, National, State and Municipal, sadly needs reconstruction. Through its defects, politics, that should be lifted into a science, has fallen into disrepute. In some respects we could study the political institutions of England, especially the House of Commons, to advantage. The creation of an American House of Commons, if carried upon that of Great Britain, would be a great step in national reform. The Presidency eventually would be abolished. In all free Governments, the tendency was to govern by one Chamber, not by two—to let power concentrate in one simple, direct representation of the people, like the House of Commons in Great Britain and Assembly in Canada. The advantages of such a system of popular self-government is a Republic were many.

CLOSING WORDS—FUTURE EFFORT.

After more than an hour of interesting conversation, passing of necessity hastily from public to private subject, your correspondent reluctantly rises to take his leave. Followed by his entertainer to the door of the apartment darkening in the twilight, the picture of the wraps commanded and still erect figure of the reformer, and his closing words, united to produce an indelible impression: "I have given thirty years of my life to the cause of human rights. I have been permitted to see the emancipation of a race. If I am spared another ten years I hope I shall be permitted to give them to the redemption of every man who works with his hands."

W. P. T.

BAD FOR MACGREGOR.

Another of Blake's Walks Down—Engineer Rhodes Fatally Injured—Several Firemen Wounded.

At 5½ o'clock yesterday morning fire was was discovered on the third floor of the six-story brick building, No. 49 Tenth-avenue, owned by JOHN P. HALE, and occupied by DEILMAN & FUNCK as a piano factory. The flames worked upward and soon broke through the roof which, in a few minutes, fell in, and in falling crushed a part of the south wall which fell outward on a shed upon which were Chief Engineer FARLEY and a large number of firemen and two policemen, Roundsman MCGLOIN and Patrolman PATRICK DWYER. Twentieth Precinct, who were slightly injured. Among the most serious of the casualties, was that of a District Engineer, W. H. RHODES, who was caught under the wall and having his chest crushed in is supposed to be fatally injured. RHODES being one of the most experienced and able of the officers of the Fire Department, his sad fate has caused universal sorrow among his comrades. The following firemen were also injured: THOS. FARRELL, Hook and Ladder No. 7, bruised; THOS. GORSON, Hook and Ladder No. 7, leg broken; THOS. SEERY, Hook and Ladder No. 9, slight; JAS. CULLEN, Hook and Ladder No. 9, contusions; JACOB VAN ORDEN, foreman Hook and Ladder No. 2, contusions head and leg; W. E. LAWRENCE, foreman Hook and Ladder No. 5, ribs broken—taken to Bellevue Hospital; JOHN CRAGLE, Foreman Engine No. 9, cut severely; JAS. CLARK, fireman—taken to Bellevue Hospital; JAS. DUNN, slightly; RABBE MCFARLAN, assistant-foreman Hook and Ladder No. 4, head cut; PAUL SCHUCK, Hook and Ladder No. 4, cut; CHAS. ACKERMAN, slight; M. D. TOMPKINS, foreman Hook and Ladder No. 1, bruised. Also the following members of Hook and Ladder No. 4: JAS. GOODALE, bruised; ENOS. LA JOINER, scalp wound; WM. MILDREW, bruised; JOHN D. SULLIVAN, leg broken, and taken to Bellevue Hospital. Of those belonging to Engine No. 3, WM. SHAW, foreman, badly cut; WASHINGTON MONTAGUE, assistant foreman, shoulder-blade broken, and taken to Bellevue Hospital; ABR. T. HENDERSON, bruised; OWEN O'ROURKE, scalp wound. The wounded were attended by Police Surgeons Fooler, Freligh, Otis, Frazer, Beach and Van Buren, and Drs. Close, Frothingham, Leddy, Morrell and Throgmorton, all of whom were assiduous in their attention to the injured. The pecuniary loss by the disaster is estimated as $50,000 by Contractor of the building, which was insured for $24,000 in each of the following companies: Metropolitan, Easton, of Bangor, Me. Home, of Columbus, Ohio, and Union, of Bangor, Me. The loss on stock is thought to be $4,000, on which there is insurance of $2,500 in the New-Amsterdam, $2,500 in the Reliance and $500 in the Lafayette. The workmen employed in the factory lose $2,000 in the destruction of tools, on which there was no insurance. It is believed that the fire originated in carelessness in the management of the stoves with which the building was heated. The other disaster from the falling of the wall will be fully investigated. It will be remembered that some months ago a wall of a building in the same vicinity, also owned by HALE, was overturned by a puff of wind, burying two families under the ruins and killing several persons.

Board of Health—Alarming Increase in Small-Pox—Statistics of the Past Week.

The Board of Health met yesterday. The Sanitary Committee recommended that the landing of cattle at the foot of West Forty-second-street, and the driving of them to the yards at Forty-first-street and Eleventh-avenue, be permitted until 9 A. M. and after 4 P. M. until the 1st of March next. The matter was referred.

The report of the City Sanitary Inspector showed an increase of fourteen cases of small-pox in the week ending November the 4th. The matter was referred to a secret session.

Dr. CHAS. P. RUSSELL, Register of Records, reports as follows: During the past week there were registered 404 deaths, being a decrease of 74 from the previous, and 18 less than for the corresponding week of 1870. Zymotic affections produced 97 deaths; constitutional, 113; local, 149; developmental, 24; and violent causes 31. The fatal cases of small-pox increased from 2 to 8. Measles occasioned 1 death, the first within five weeks. Intermittent fever caused 2 deaths, the same number as in the preceeding week. With these exceptions, there was a general decline in the principal zymotic diseases.

The following is a statement of contagious diseases reported last week: Typhus fever, 7; typhoid fever, 10; scarlet fever, 41; diphtheria, 5; and small-pox, 20.

Probable Suicide.

ELWOOD LUKINS, a well-known resident of Camden County, New-Jersey, was found on Monday evening lying near the Camden and Atlantic Railroad at Rowandtown, with his throat cut. It is supposed he committed suicide. Coroner BENDER, of Camden, impaneled a jury and commenced an inquest.

Suicide of a Farmer.

Yesterday, about noon, a farmer, named ADOLPH STEINER, residing in the eastern part of Newtown, was found hanging by a rope to a rafter in the barn. He was immediately cut down, but life was extinct. The man has not lived many years in that vicinity, and being of a retiring disposition, little is known of his character.

Payment to the Department of Docks.

Deputy Controller GREEN yesterday paid the Department of Docks $100,000 for the uses of that Department.

Probable Homicide.

JOHN SOMMERS, one of a riotous crowd at Fifty-ninth-street and First-avenue, was yesterday arrested by Officer HAMILL, and on being taken to the Yorkville Police Station his skull was found to have been fractured when arrested. He attempted to stab the officer, who clubbed him on the head. The fracture of the skull is supposed to have been caused by a blow of a slung-shot or some other heavy instrument. He was intoxicated at the time. JOHN VANDER-BAYDEN was subsequently arrested on suspicion.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis of Hyetal and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9—1 A. M.—The area of low barometer which existed Tuesday night in New-England has passed to the southeast, and north-westerly winds, with partially cloudy weather, have continued in that region. An area of low barometer has advanced from Texas and Nebraska eastward to Illinois. North-westerly winds have prevailed on the upper lakes; southerly and easterly winds, with rain, from Illinois southward to the Gulf and westward; brisk north winds, with snow, has prevailed in Wyoming; light winds, with clear weather, on the Pacific coast.

PROBABILITIES.

The low barometer in Missouri will probably move east and north-westward over the lakes, with brisk north-east winds on Lake Michigan and southerly winds on the lower lakes. Cloudy and threatening weather will probably continue in the Southern and Gulf States; clearing away west of Alabama; partially cloudy and clear weather in the Middle and Eastern States Thursday morning, followed by easterly winds and cloudy weather Thursday night.

WARNING SIGNALS ORDERED.

Cautionary signals are ordered for to-night on the southern portion of Lake Michigan.

UNION MUSICALE FRANCAISE.

"L'Union Musicale Francaise," a Society of musicians and amateurs recently formed by French residents of this City, for purposes of instruction, practice and pleasure, gives its first public entertainment at Lyric Hall, this evening. The affair will include a concert and a ball and its proms are to go to the relief of the sufferers by the fires in Illinois, in Michigan, and in Guadaloupe. It promises to be interesting and well-attended.

American Exports.

The manufacturing prosperity of a country is invariably measured by its exports. In this respect America has made more rapid strides than any other country, especially in articles of higher art manufacture, foremost among which is the piano-forte. In this instance, importation has entirely ceased, owing to the universally conceded superiority of American pianos, and distinctively those of STEINWAY & SONS, both at home and abroad, whose export trade has now reached such extensive proportions that this Branch of their business alone equals the entire manufacture of two or three of the leading European makers combined. STEINWAY'S Manufactory being the most extensive and complete in the world, while the number of pianos made and sold annually by them, as shown by the published revenue returns, exceeds that of the twelve largest New-York firms combined.

The London World's Fair of 1862, and still more especially the Paris Exposition of 1867, incontestably proved the immense superiority of the Steinway pianos over all others, and won for them the First Grand Gold Medal of Honor, as awarded by the unanimous decision of the International Jury, over 400 instruments of other makers.

Why this proud distinction was awarded the Steinway piano is best explained by the following extract from the official report of the International Jury, on musical instruments, published in August, 1868, and which fully explains the reasons which guided the Jury in their decision.

"The pianos of Messrs. STEINWAY & SONS are endowed with the splendid sonority and that raising largeness of volume of tone hitherto unknown, which fills the greatest space. Brilliant in the treble, singing in the middle, and formidable in the bass, their sonority, both with treasured up expression on the organs of hearing, in relation to expression, delicate shading, variety of accentuation, the instruments of Messrs. STEINWAY have over those of their competitors an advantage which cannot be contested. The pianist feels under his hands an action pliant and sensitive, which permits him at will to be powerful or light, vehement and impassioned. These pianos are at the same time the instruments of the virtuoso, who wishes to astonish by the éclat of his execution, and of the artist who applies his talent to the music of thought and sentiment bequeathed to us by the illustrious masters; in one word, they are at the same time the pianos for the concert-room and the parlor, possessing an exceptionable sonority."

But an equally valuable distinction has been received by STEINWAY & SONS, in that conferred on their pianos by Professor HELMHOLTZ, who occupies the Chair of Acoustics in the University of Berlin, and who is unanimously admitted to be the highest authority in the science of acoustics that is known.

The various improvements made by STEINWAY & SONS in their pianos, viz.: The Patent Resonator (by means of which the tension of the sounding-board can be regulated with the greatest nicety) and other important inventions introduced by them, all tending to obviate previously existing defects in all pianos, struck the Professor's attention, and after a careful examination of the Steinway pianos, and those of other makers, he arrived at the conclusion that the Steinway piano alone reached the acme of perfection, and he directed the purchase of a Steinway grand piano for express use for his experiments and lectures on acoustics in the Berlin University. The following letter, acknowledging the arrival of the instrument at its destination, needs no comment:

BERLIN, June 9, 1871.

Messrs. Steinway & Sons:

Herewith I beg you to accept my very best thanks for the superb grand piano which you have sent me, and which has safely arrived.

I am amazed at the prolonged vibration of its tone, by which the instrument becomes somewhat organ-like, by the lightness and delicacy of the touch, (considering its great volume of tone,) and by the precise and perfect cessation of the tone when the dampers effect—an element so essential to distinctness in playing.

The perceptibility of the bass tones is much improved by the use of the long scale of the strings, and it is evident that in ordinary pianos the short and too heavily weighted strings produce unharmonious secondary tones, the musical interval become indistinct, and the quality decidedly smothered.

With such an instrument as yours placed before me, I must modify many of my former expressed views regarding pianos. I hear frequently many harmonic combination tones, while such a long vibrating tone as that of your grand piano is much more sensitive to dissonances than that of ordinary instruments, the tones of which so quickly die away, &c., &c.

Once more, my very best thanks, yours,

H. HELMHOLTZ.

So truly "world-wide" has the reputation of Steinway's pianos become, that their export trade includes large numbers of pianos shipped in compliance with direct orders from Berlin, London, St. Petersburg, Stockholm, Madrid, Odessa on the Black Sea, and other large and musically-critical European cities, besides a large and ever-increasing demand throughout South America and the West Indies, while the Steinway pianos are sought to be copied by nearly all American and European piano makers, many of the latter announcing through the public papers that their pianos are constructed on the "Steinway" system.—Commercial Advertiser.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

At the Exchange yesterday, Nov. 8, the attendance was very large—the great attraction being the sale of Boulevard lots between Seventy-sixth and Seventy-seventh streets, by V. K. STEVENSON & SON. The sale was made by order of the Supreme Court in partition under the direction of ADDISON THOMAS, Esq., referee, and the schedule embraced twenty-seven lots in all, situate between the streets named and forming the block lying west of Tenth-avenue. The property was offered on liberal terms, but the bidding was not as active as was hoped for or expected, and consequently only fourteen of the lots were sold, the remainder being withdrawn and the further sale postponed until Thursday, Feb. 9. The lots sold comprised half the block fronting on Seventy-sixth-street, between Grand Boulevard and Tenth-avenue. Details and names of purchasers will be found below. The prices realised were considered low.

In addition to the above, JOSEPH MCGUIRE, by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, under the direction of GEORGE F. LANGBEIN, Esq., referee, sold a three-story and basement Harlem stoop brown-stone house and lot—the latter 18.9 by 99.9—located on the south side of Thirtieth-street, 120 feet 9 inches east of Third-avenue, for $19,600; purchaser, ANDREW ROTHGEB.

Aside from real estate, the stock sale conducted by MULLER, WILKINS & CO. realized as follows, the securities noted being disposed of at the percentage prices annexed: $2,000 New-York and Erie Railroad Company fourth mortgage bonds, interest April and October, $1,000 each, sold at 97 per cent.; $5,000 Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company bonds, interest March and September, $1,000 each, sold at 95 per cent; 400 shares Manhattan Gas-light Company, $50 each—200¼ to 202; 14 shares Knickerbocker Insurance Company, $50 each, 141; 21 shares Metropolitan Gas-light Company, $100 each—178 to 180; 200 shares Chatham National Bank, par, $25 each, 155; 25 shares Seventh Ward National Bank, $100 each, 160½; 100 shares Tradesmen's National Bank, $50 each, 158¼ to 158; 100 shares Butchers' and Drovers' National Bank, $25 each, 148; 80 shares Chatham National Bank, $25 each, 155; 20 shares Pacific Bank, $50 each, 300½; 218 shares Metropolitan Gas-light Company, $100 each, 178 to 179½; and $12,040 Metropolitan Gas-light Company scrip stock, sold at from 194¾ to 195.

Today at the Exchange a large number of sales are advertised to occur, at which a variety of valuable City real estate will be sold. A desirable property located at Newtown, Long Island, will also be offered.

Holders of Five-Twenties

WHO WISH TO INCREASE THEIR INCOME

WITHOUT RISK,

Can obtain from us any of the best descriptions of Railroad Bonds for cash, or in exchange for Government Securities. We have the Bonds of the

Rondout and Oswego Railroad

FOR SALE.

These bonds are in good demand, and we recommend them as safe and most remunerative. The bonded charity of these Bonds is partly due to the fact that the interest is not paid out of capital, as has to be done by some other incipient enterprises. The Rondout and Oswego Railroad Company are doing a prosperous business. The net earnings of the road already amount to 10 per cent. on all the Bonds to be issued. Fifty miles are now in operation, and the remaining fifty miles will be opened next Summer, fifteen miles being almost finished. The road passes through the richest agricultural and bituminous coal districts, and will be thrown open to the great lines and deep water navigation on the Hudson. The business of the road to this City allows its true condition to be examined and thoroughly known by the bondholder. By procuring the Bonds of this Company for investment the investor gets a Bond equally sound and safe; he also adds to his capital more than 25 per cent., while to his income he adds more than 47½ per cent.

P. T. BARNUM TO THE PUBLIC.

After thirty years' active career in the Museum and Show Business, I understood, at the end of two disastrous conflagrations, to retire permanently from business cares, and, taking Horace Greeley's characteristic advice, "Go a Fishing" for the balance of my days.

But neither cash nor fortune of itself furnishes a comfortable content; and being stimulated by energies that will not abate, by a constitution unimpaired, and by a desire once more to gratify the demands of an anxious public, I absolutely became "restive" under "rest."

Hence I planned and put in action the past season a mammoth traveling show, embracing a great Museum, Menagerie, Caravan and Hippodrome, to which I also added Dan Castello's celebrated Circus—an exhibition absolutely colossal, exhaustive and beautifully various as money and experience could make it!

This vast combination of exhibitions I transported by means of 500 men and horses, through the principal towns and cities of New-England and a portion of the Empire State.

The success of this grand enterprise averaged $2,500 per day, (6 consecutive months,) during my year upon the road, the largest group of wonders ever known, while the admission to the entire series of attractions was that of an ordinary Menagerie or Circus, viz., 50 cents; children half price. The entire exhibition combined, as all my shows have aimed to do, wholesome instruction with innocent amusement, being every gentleman's moral and unexceptionable resort, and containing an aggregate more startling and entirely novel wonders of creation than were ever before seen in one collection.

It is therefore with no ordinary degree of pride I announce to the American public that my grand combination has proved to be the crowning success of my managerial life.

Important Decision in the Bohemian Diet—Countenance of the Netherlands Trading Company—French Ministerial Changes.

VIENNA, Nov. 8.—The Bohemian Diet, in session at Prague, has voted unanimously against electing delegates to the Reichsrath. Government has in consequence ordered the immediate close of its deliberations.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 8.—In view of the recent negotiations with the British Government in regard to the Dutch possessions in Asia and Africa, the "Netherlands Trading Company," which has long acted as the broker of Government in its East India trade, has held a meeting to consider the policy of continuing its organization for a further period of twenty-five years. The decision unanimously arrived at was to adopt that course in preference to closing its operations at present.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—The Duke DE BROGLIE left for London this evening. The Duke D'HARCOURT has also taken his departure to resume his post at Rome. It is thought probable that M. GOULARD will be assigned to the Italian mission.

Enquiry Into the Surrender of Metz—United Effort to Break Up the International Society.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—The Commission of Inquiry on the capitulations made by French Generals during the late war, in prosecuting its investigations with great vigor. Marshal BAZAINE, who had already appeared before it in person, has now sent in a detailed and voluminous report of the siege of Metz, together with the letters received by him from NAPOLEON during the investment. It is said that the judgment of the Commission will bear with great severity on those principally responsible for the surrender of the fortress. The Minister of War has prohibited the circulation of newspapers in the barracks and camps.

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—A conference of diplomats will be held in Dresden at an early day, to devise precautionary measures against the International Society.

MEXICO.

General Disorder Throughout the Country—The Revolutionists in Possession of Several Important Places.

MEXICO, Oct. 30, VIA HAVANA, Nov. 6.—Anarchy prevails in many of the States of Mexico. The revolution in Nuevo Leon still continues. The revolutionists of Zacatecas have invaded the State of San Luis Potosi. Numerous bands of most are seeking villages and haciendas in the States of Hidalgo and Mexico, and in the Federal District. Robberies are committed in sight of the gates of the City. GOMEZ FONTSUAL is in the field operating against the State Government of Aguascalientes. SIMMONS is again at the head of a force operating alternately in Guerro and Puebla. The authorities of the State of Oaxaca neglected to promulgate the re-election of JUAREZ.

CHICAGO RELIEF COMMITTEE.

Official Statement of the Amounts Received and Expended—Future Intentions of the Executive Committee.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—The Executive Committee of the Chicago Relief and Aid Society have published an official financial statement of the amount actually received up to Nov. 7. The actual subscription is $3,600,000 out of about $5,500,000 subscribed. This includes $200,000 in the hands of the New-York Chamber of Commerce and $200,000 in Boston not yet placed to the credit of the fund. The Society is now aiding about 60,000 persons. The most pressing need for which the Committee has to provide is shelter for the houseless thousands during the coming Winter. To this end the Committee are aiding those burnt out to erect small but comfortable houses on the sites of their former dwellings or on leased ground, which they may live in not only during the Winter, but also next Summer, so as to be able to go to work on the rebuilding of the city. Four thousand of these houses have already been built, and it is estimated will shelter about 20,000 people. These with the number expected to be built will shelter altogether 80,000 people. The cost of these temporary buildings, with some necessary furniture, will be about $1,200,000, leaving $2,250,000 to meet the demands for food, clothing, fuel and general sickness from Oct. 13 until the completion of the work, which cannot possibly end with the present Winter.

QUEBEC, Canada, Nov. 8.—The Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec opened the first session of the second Parliament of the Province, today, with the usual formalities. His speech he congratulates Parliament on the progress since the confederation, and recommends a continuance of the policy of railroad extension as far as finances will admit. He says that several emigration agents have been appointed in Europe and throughout the United States, and that the result of their efforts is very gratifying. He recommends the passing of a measure for improvements in the laws of the administration of justice. THE WOMEN OF UTAH.

The Salt Lake correspondent of the Sacramento Union gives the following as a copy of the paper signed by nearly 2,000 women of Utah, and forwarded by them to Washington in October:

"PETITION OF THE MORMON WOMEN.—Mrs. PRESIDENT GRANT: Honored lady, deeming it proper for woman to appeal to woman, we, Latter-day Saint ladies of Utah, take the liberty of presenting our humble and earnest petition for your kindly and generous aid; not merely because you are the wife of the Chief Magistrate of our great nation, but we also are induced to appeal to you because of your high personal reputation for nobility and excellence of character. Believing that you, as all true women should do, rise in our estimation every wife should fill the position of counselor to her husband, upon the confidence of and have much influence with his Excellency President GRANT, we earnestly solicit the exercise of that influence with him in behalf of our husbands, fathers, sons and brothers, who are now being exposed to the murderous policy of a clique of Federal officers, intent on the destruction of an honest, happy, Christian and prosperous people. We have broken no constitutional law, violated no obligation, either national or sectional; we revere the sacred Constitution of our country, and have ever been an order-loving and law-abiding people. We believe the institution of marriage to have been ordained of God, and therefore subject to His all-wise direction. It is a divine rite and not a civil contract, and hence no man unauthorized of God can legally administer in this holy ordinance. We believe also in the Holy Bible, and that God did anciently institute the order of plurality of wives, and sanctioned and honored it in the advent of the Savior of the world, whose birth on the mother's side was in that polygamous line, as He testified to His servant JOHN, on the Isle of Patmos, saying, 'I am the root and the offspring of David.' And we not only believe but most assuredly know that the Almighty has restored the fullness of the everlasting Gospel through the prophet JOSEPH SMITH, and with it the plurality of wives. This we accept as a purely divine institution. With us it is a matter of conscience, knowing that God commanded its practice. Our Territorial laws make adultery and licentiousness penal offenses, the breach of which subjects the offender to fine and imprisonment. These laws are being basely subverted by our Federal officers; who, after unscrupulously wresting the Territorial offices from their legitimate holders, in order to carry out sinful schemes, now are substituting licentiousness for the sacred order of marriage, and seeking by these measures to incarcerate the most moral and upright men of the Territory, and thus destroy the peace and prosperity of this entire community. They evidently design to sever those conjugal, parental and fraternal ties which are dearer to us than our lives. We appreciate our husbands as highly as it is possible for ours to appreciate madam, to appreciate yours. They have no interests but such as we share in common with them. If they are persecuted, we are persecuted also; if they are imprisoned, we and our children are left unprovided. As a community we love peace and promote it. Our leaders are peace-makers, and invariably counsel the people to pacific measures even when subjected to the grossest injustice. President BRIGHAM YOUNG and several of his associates, all noble and philanthropic gentlemen, are already under indictment, to be arraigned before a packed jury, mostly non-residents, for the crime of licentiousness, than which a more outrageous absurdity could not exist. Under these forbidding and cruel circumstances, dear Madam, our most fervent petition to you is, that through the sympathy of your womanly heart you will persuade the President to remove the malicious disturbers of the peace, or at least that he will stop the disgraceful Court proceedings, and send from Washington a committee of candid, intelligent, reliable men, who shall investigate matters which involve the rights of property—perhaps of life; and more than all, the constitutional liberties of more than 100,000 citizens. By doing this you will be the honored instrument, in the hand of God, of preventing a final disgrace to the present Administration, and an eternal blot on our national escutcheon. For which your petitioners will ever pray."
